EXPECT WARMER JANUARY THAN NORMAL IN MOST PARTS OF INDIA: IMD

Minimum and maximum temperatures are likely to be above normal in most parts of India, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) said

BELOW NORMAL WINTER RAINFALL IN THE NORTH

Apart from some areas in eastern, northwest, and west-central regions, other parts of the country will see minimum and maximum temperatures above normal, the IMD said. States in north India are most likely to receive below-normal rainfall from January to March. This may affect the growth of rabi crops, which depend on winter rainfall

LAST YEAR WAS WARMEST SINCE 1901

- Monthly rainfall over the country as a whole during January is most likely to be more than 118% above the long-period average, IMD said
- The meteorological department said 2024 was the warmest on record in India since 1901, with an annual mean temperature of 25.75 degrees Celsius, 0.65 degrees above the long-period average

Govt outreach to put fertiliser rates on leash

Cabinet's first decision of the new year on farmers; crop insurance schemes extended

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

AT a time when farmers in Punjab are on the war path, the Union Cabinet on Wednesday allocated up to ₹3,850 crore for a one-time package to subsidise the di-ammonium phosphate (DAP) fertiliser and approved a one-year extension of two crop insurance schemes.

In a post on X, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said, "(Govt's) first decision of the New Year is dedicated to crores of farmer brothers and sisters of our country. We have approved increasing the allocation for the crop insurance scheme. This will provide more security to farmers' crops and will also mitigate their concerns about any damage." The decision on DAP will ensure farmers get it at affordable prices, the prime minister added.

The DAP subsidy aims to keep retail prices at ₹1,350 per bag of 50 kg, Union minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said during a media briefing. Last year, the Centre announced a one-time special package on DAP at ₹3,500 per tonne, valid from April 1, 2024 to December 31, 2024, with a financial implication of ₹2,625 crore. The package was over and above the nutrient-based subsidy fixed by the government on non-urea nutrients.

Besides, the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY) and the Restructured Weather Based Crop Insurance Scheme (RWBCIS) have been extended to align it with the 15th Finance Commission period, Vaishnaw said.

The outlay for PMFBY and RWBCI has been enhanced to ₹69,515.71 crore for 2021-22 to 2025-26, up from ₹66,550 crore for 2020-21 to 2024-25.

For targeted infusion of technology in crop insurance schemes, the Cabinet also approved a separate fund with a corpus of ₹824.77 crore.

Budget: Siddu's focus on getting revenue deficit grants?

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah, who is all set to start department-wise review meetings for 2025-26 budget, is likely to chalk out a plan meticulously to draw the attention of the 16th Finance Commission to get revenue deficit grants from the Centre.

Sources told TNIE that he may not stick to presenting a surplus budget, but would showcase the gap in state's revenue and expenditure to help get revenue deficit grants from the Centre based on the commission's recommendations.

The 15th commission had recommended neighbouring states, especially Kerala for Rs 37,814-crore revenue deficit grant between 2020-21 and 2025-26, of which it received Rs 34.648, the sources said.

During the visit of the 16th Finance Commission headed by its chairman Dr Arvind Panagariya in August last, Siddaramaiah, who also holds the finance portfolio, presented a report on the state's financial situation.

Highlighting Karnataka's contribution of about Rs 4 lakh crore to the Gross Tax Revenue of the Union every year, the chief minister stated that the state gets only about Rs 45,000 crore in the form of devolution and about Rs 15,000 crore grant-in-aid. This means, for every rupee Karnataka contributes, it gets only 15 paise in return.

When he presents his 16th budget tentatively on March 14, he would project the actual revenue on one hand, and on the other expenditures soaring, according to sources.

"Siddaramaiah does not want to get a pat on his back by presenting a surplus budget, which would not help get Centre's grants, instead would be pragmatic," they said.

The outlay would cross Rs 4 lakh crore, an increase of 10-15 per cent over the 2024-25 budget which had an outlay of Rs 3.71 lakh crore. P4

Farmers up in arms against land acquisition for B'luru's SWIFT City

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

MANY farmers from villages in Sarjapur hobli of Anekal taluk have received notices from Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board (KIADB) stating that their lands will be acquired for industrial purposes.

The board is set to acquire 1,050 acres of land for the state government's ambitious SWIFT City (Startups, Work-spaces, Innovation, Finance, and Technology) in Sarjapur.

SWIFT City will have offices, residential areas, and co-working environments to support startups.

KC Devaraju, a farmer from B Hosahalli village, said, "My family has three acres and 16 guntas of ancestral land. We completed ragi harvesting recently. We get water at a depth of 300 ft even now."

Devaraju and other farmers from B Hosahalli received notices from KIADB in October last. In the notices, officials from KIADB stated that they will acquire 400 acres of land in B Hosahalli.

Neither Devaraju nor other farmers were consulted before notices were issued to them by KIADB.

Devaraju said farmers from B Hosahalli send around 10 truck loads of vegetables and fruits daily to KR Market and to the market in Madiwala in Bengaluru.

Similarly, KIADB will acquire around 600 acres of land at Andenahalli near Hosahalli. According to documents available with TNIE, the state government, at its cabinet meeting in February last, stated that only dryland will be acquired for the project.

But farmers from these villages said that they grow ragi, vegetables and flowers with water from borewells and other sources. P5

40 years later, toxic Union Carbide waste exits Bhopal

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

FOUR decades after the 1984 Bhopal gas tragedy killed thousands of people, some 337 tonnes of toxic waste lying at the defunct Union Carbide factory were on Wednesday night moved to another site in Dhar district.

The Madhya Pradesh government is shifting the hazardous waste out of Bhopal to comply with a MP High Court order, which on December 3 had directed it to shift the toxic waste within four weeks. The state government has to file compliance report before the next hearing on January 6.

Officials said the toxic waste has been sent to Pithampur Industrial Area, 250 km from Bhopal, for disposal. A dedicated green corridor has been created to transport the hazardous material in one night. Twelve specially designed trucks with leak-proof, fire-resistant, and GPS-enabled containers are carrying the waste—toxic soil, pesticide residues, and chemicals.

The process of collecting, packing, and loading of the waste, which was lying at a sealed shed within the closed factory, had started on Sunday under the supervision of experts. Over 200 trained workers were deployed, each of them operating in short 30-minute shifts following strict safety measures, including wearing PPE kits. The entire process—unlocking the waste, its secure and safe packing, and loading on to the secured containers—was video-filmed and recorded.

"The incineration process could take 3-9 months, depending on the speed (feed rate)," Swatantra Kumar Singh, director of Bhopal Gas Tragedy Relief and Rehabilitation Directorate, told this newspaper.

The move comes amid stiff protests from activists who claimed the incineration process would pollute the soil and ground water in the villages around Pithampur, a charge refuted by the authorities. Indore mayor Pushyamitra Bhargava, who is a BJP leader, has also voiced concern, saying the decision to destroy the waste should be reviewed.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

Bangla crisis a boon for Ballari jeans units

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

POLITICAL unrest in Bangladesh has come as a blessing in disguise for the jeans industry here.

Bangladesh was one of the world's largest jeans exporters till a few months ago when the crisis hit the industry there. Each unit in Ballari is now doing 30% more business.

Industry experts said India's top brands depended on Bangladesh for jeans till recently, but they are now in touch with the units in Ballari, which is known as the jeans capital of India.

According to business data, each unit here made profits between Rs 5 and Rs 10 lakh every month after the political unrest hit the industry in Bangladesh. There are more than 500 units in Ballari city and its outskirts. Products made here are usually purchased by traders and dealers in Mumbai and Surat. But now, some international brands are keen on Ballari jeans.

Workers at a jeans unit in Ballari

Pollux Mallikarjun, owner of Pollux Jeans and member of Ballari Jeans Industry Welfare Association, said the local jeans industry has now gone global. Any development in the global jeans market will have its impact on the industry here. The crisis in Bangladesh is a classic example of this. The demand for products manufactured in Ballari has increased significantly, he added.

"Some top international brands started contacting the producers here after the crisis hit Bangladesh. We have been getting bulk orders since September last. I have increased my staff strength to deliver the products on time," he said.

According to sources, a unit in Ballari received a Rs 35-lakh supply order last month.

'Transform city's urban mobility system'

AKNISREE KARTHIK @ Bengaluru

DATA-driven decision-making, inclusive mobility policies, improving public transport and last-mile connectivity, avoiding construction of tunnel roads and flyovers which encourage cars, topped experts' wishlist for 2025. They batted for a transformation in Bengaluru's urban mobility system.

"For 2025, we need sustainable, comfortable mobility. We want to be able to get seats in buses, which should move faster than cars. We want shade when we walk and safer roads when we cycle. Therefore, the government should fund BMTC to buy its own buses (not on lease), put in place bus lanes, widen footpaths and plant trees, and lay more cycle tracks," said Vinay Sreenivasa, advocate and member of Bengaluru Bus Prayanikara Vedike.

The government should avoid all flyovers, tunnel roads and other projects which encourage cars. Cars must be charged high parking fees, he said.

Stating that his wishlist focuses on Bengaluru's mobility systems, Chetan Sodaye, programme manager, Integrated Transport and Road Safety, World Resource Institute (WRI) India, said, "Data-driven decision-making should be prioritised to improve road safety, particularly by scaling up initiatives like Suraksha 75, moving from 75 to 500 safe junctions to ensure the safety of all road users. Enhancing inclusive mobility policies is essential to provide equitable access for all, including children, women, the elderly, and people with disabilities."

STARTING Point 2025

He said that in 2025, the focus should be to improve public transport and last-mile connectivity, shifting the focus from moving vehicles to moving people, and making transport systems more efficient and accessible.

Promoting active mobility, such as walking and cycling, with scientifically redesigned streets and improving road networks, especially in and around the ORR, Sarjapur Road and Electronics City should be the focus. Lastly, Chetan Sodaye said fostering co-creation and participatory governance can empower communities to shape mobility plans, ensuring they are context-sensitive and inclusive.

S Nataraja Sharma, president of Karnataka State Bus Owners' Association (KSBOA), said, "As we look forward to 2025, we hope for policies and initiatives that foster innovation, ensure fair practices, and address longstanding concerns of the industry. From improved infrastructure to streamlined regulations, let this year be a turning point that benefits both operators and commuters alike. With collective effort, determination and optimism, we believe that the transport industry can achieve remarkable milestones in the coming year. Let us move ahead with unity and dedication to make 2025 a landmark year for progress and success."

WHAT A WASTE! NYE REVELLERS LITTER CBD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE festivities on the evening of December 31 evening through the early hours of Wednesday led to significant littering on the streets of Bengaluru. According to data shared by the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and Bangalore Solid Waste Management Limited (BSWML), 15 tonnes of waste was collected and cleared from Brigade Road, Church Street, Museum Road, St Mark's Road, Lavelle Road and surrounding regions near MG Road.

BBMP east zone commissioner Snehal R and BSWML chief general manager Basavaraj Kabade personally oversaw the cleaning efforts in the city's Central Business District roads early Wednesday morning.

"The cleanup began at 3 am along MG Road, Brigade Road, Church Street, Residency Road, Richmond Road, St Mark's Road, Kasturba Road and others areas near MG Road Junction. The work was completed by 7 am, with 15 tonnes of waste cleared, ensuring the streets were ready for the smooth movement of citizens," said an official.

The cleaning operation was carried out by the solid waste department of Shantinagar division, with over 70 civic workers on the ground. They were supported by junior health officers and marshals overseeing the work, along with 25 auto tippers and three compactors deployed for waste collection. "Plastic covers, plastic bottles, slippers, and other items were strewn on the roads and footpaths. They were segregated and collected. Three tonnes of waste was sent to the dry waste collection unit for recycling," said a senior engineer from BSWML.

In preparation for the cleanup, BBMP workers conducted a field survey covering a 7-km radius from MG Road, the epicentre of New Year's celebrations, starting immediately after the celebrations ended around 2 am. Based on the findings, waste clearing teams were promptly dispatched.

BBMP removes encroachments, illegal banners

BBMP that received complaints regarding footpath encroachment and visual pollution in areas of RR Nagar zone and East Zone deployed special teams and removed encroachment and also illegal banners. The officials have warned the vendors and hawkers, instructed them during the monthly drive, that the belongings would be seized if they repeat the violation and obstruct the public space.

Farmers plan meeting in B'luru on Jan 4

KIRAN Kumar, who got a notice 20 days ago, said, "I have 2.5 acres of land where I grow vegetables and roses with water from my borewell and nearby lakes. We are not ready to give our land. We have staged a protest thrice and we are ready even for a legal fight."

Swaroop Reddy, joint secretary, Bharatiya Kisan Sangha, Anekal unit, said over 700 farmers from eight villages have received land acquisition notices. Of the 1,050 acres of land notified for acquisition, farmers are cultivating 800 acres. No survey has been conducted and local panchayat members and officials have not been consulted. The government is expediting the land acquisition process.

He said the government has filed a caveat before the high court and many farmers have received notices in this regard. There is a rule that land cannot be acquired within 100 metres of gram panchayat limits. But this rule has been violated, he alleged. Farmers have submitted a letter to officials stating that they are not ready to part with their land. Around 5,000 farmers from villages across Anekal taluk will hold a meeting on January 4 opposing the government's move to acquire land.

"We want the government to hold a public hearing on land acquisition. We will take out a padayatra from Attibele to Vidhana Soudha soon," said another farmer. Recently, a drone, which was used to conduct a land survey, was destroyed by farmers.

According to KIADB sources, when a preliminary notification is issued to farmers, they can file objections. "The objections will be placed before a committee and if they are genuine, action will be taken accordingly," the sources said.

A record! KEA conducts 17 competitive exams

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Examinations Authority has set new benchmarks in 2024, breaking all previous records. The authority conducted 17 competitive exams, including Police Sub-Inspector (PSI) recruitment and Karnataka State Eligibility Test (K-SET) exams that were held twice, and successfully recruited 6,052 candidates.

KEA Executive Director H Prasanna said that the department processed over 20 lakh applications this year, marking a new record in KEA's 30-year history. He added that, besides conducting entrance exams and admissions for professional courses, KEA also managed recruitment exams for several government departments.

A standout achievement was the recruitment of 947 PSIs, completed in two phases. The first phase filled 545 positions, followed by 402 positions in the second phase. Strict measures, including camera monitoring and real-time webcasting, were introduced to ensure transparency and fairness during the exams, he said.

Prasanna also noted that KEA conducted exams for recruitments announced in 2022 and 2023. These included 300 Principal posts in degree colleges, 72 MSIL positions, 386 posts for the Food and Civil Supplies Corporation, 186 posts for the Karnataka Building and Other Construction Workers Welfare Board, and 26 posts for KEONICS. Additionally, exams for 545 PSI positions, 14 posts with the Sainik Welfare and Resettlement Board, and 394 posts with the Karnataka Power Corporation were completed.

In 2024, KEA also conducted recruitments for 2,500 BMTC conductors, 402 PSIs, and 1,000 Village Administrative Officer posts. Furthermore, KEA held the K-SET exams for 2023 and 2024, covering 41 subjects.

KEA continued its core functions, conducting CETs and professional course admissions for the first time in its history.

BBMP begins pothole-filling works

ENS @ Bengaluru

BBMP has begun fixing potholes and conducting a quality check on work in the Begur and Arekere areas of Bommanahalli zone. The area is part of an IT corridor and connects to Electronics City, which houses several business establishments and startup ventures.

Officials from the engineering department checked the bitumen and other aggregates and laying of tar at Vittasandra Main Road that connects Begur, Brunduvana Layout and Mico Layout in Arekere, all falling under BBMP's Bommanahalli zone.

It may be recalled that in November, Biocon founder Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw highlighted the bad road condition and asked BBMP to hand over road asphalting work to the Electronics City Industrial Township Authority (ELCITA) as it has managed all its roads well. She also highlighted the sufferings of motorists and office-goers in this IT belt, who suffer due to bad road infrastructure.

The development also led to Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar meeting her with urban experts and other corporates, and asking them to cooperate with the government in building good infrastructure.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

02ND January: I've recently returned to an examination of the latest results for road-crash statistics and zodiac signs. So, guess which sign has the worst record? Gemini, of course! I have many close friends born under this sign, but they do have a tendency to use their mobile phones, look at the view or talk to people in the back seat, while they're driving!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Pleasing lunar alignments continue, giving you the emotional support you need to recuperate after recent upsets. The prospects for all in the property market are improving, and you might even find that a partner is now more sympathetic to your personal plans.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Some of you will be subject to a blinding flash of genius, one which may have something to do with an overseas connection, perhaps, or maybe a major issue of principle. For once, you'll be able to see both the wood and the trees, grasping the wider vision and coping with the smallest detail.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It still seems inevitable that other people will have the advantage, perhaps because they hold the key to lost information and forgotten decisions. You may have to bow to pressure at home and let partners have their way. Partnership holds the key to everything.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Total self-knowledge is an impossible dream but, after all your recent struggles, most of you have come to terms with who you are. Your achievements in the personal field should stand you in good stead over the coming days, and you'll be buoyed up by the memory of past success.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It may well be that what is being arranged behind the scenes will lead to a very successful career move. However, it's time for words of commonsense advice again: all ambitious Leos should slow down and watch out for pitfalls. It's when life is going well that you forget essential precautions.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Take a break from imaginative schemes and day-dreams and spare a thought for fundamental details at the most practical level. Nothing should be overlooked, no matter how small or apparently irrelevant. As an additional point, why don't you listen to older friends? There's a truth they'll reveal that you'd do well to heed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Everything is up in the air. To be perfectly honest, telepathy is probably the most reliable form of communication at the moment! And I know that's not saying much! What I really mean is that the facts should be taken with a pinch of salt. Check them out for yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may discover that either you are about to reach your true desire, or that you were chasing a mirage. In any event, don't forget that current planetary pressures are largely to do with self-knowledge. If you know what you really and truly want, you'll be more likely to get it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
New and unusual friends are turning up in your life, adding spice to the social scene. Everything that is about to take place on the work front will challenge you. You may have to revise your attitudes to colleagues or reassess the way you operate. Efficiency seems to be the key.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You will have to make some kind of personal commitment before the next phase of your life can commence. Someone may be sweeter on you than you are on them. In any case, it is only fair to take other people's feelings into account, especially when you're in a position to help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The most important lessons in life are often the hardest to learn. In this respect, events over the next four or five days may confront you at the very heart of your Aquarian conservatism and obstinacy. I mean, it's amazing how resistant you can be to change!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Everybody will be aware of a general air of crisis as the weekend approaches. The stars' advice to Pisceans is to tread carefully in legal issues and confirm all travel plans. And do explain yourself properly, otherwise you can't complain if a partner gets the wrong idea.

CITY SEES 3.34% RISE IN SELF-ACCIDENTS IN 2024

ORR a danger zone; slight decrease in pedestrian deaths

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE number of self-accident cases has risen in Bengaluru in 2024, with a 3.34% increase compared to 2023. The city saw a slight dip in overall accident and pedestrian death cases in 2024. Strict enforcement and awareness campaigns by the police have been credited for the decline in the accident rate.

According to data shared by the Bengaluru Traffic Police (BTP), 893 people were killed and 4,052 injured in road accidents in 2024, compared to 910 deaths and 4,191 injuries in 2023. Overall, the accident rate reduced by 3.97% compared to the previous year. Meanwhile, 233 pedestrians lost their lives in 2024, compared to 287 in 2023, marking a significant decline.

The police have taken strict action against dangerous stunts, particularly wheelie riders. In 2024, the police booked 532 cases and arrested 456 individuals, including 121 minors.

Speaking to TNIE, Deputy Commissioner of Police (Traffic-South Division) Shivaprakash Devaraju said that strict enforcement against drunk and driving, along with awareness programs on road safety, helmet use, and adherence to traffic rules, contributed to the reduction in accident rates. However, self-accident cases have increased due to reckless driving at night and drunk driving incidents. Most self-accidents were reported along the city's Outer Ring Road, he said.

He further added that to reduce pedestrian accidents, the city police have identified and rectified black spots, particularly those prone to pedestrian-related incidents. According to data, pedestrian accidents reduced by 23.17% compared to the previous year.

A data highlighted the creation of 54 green corridors for medical emergencies in 2024. Additionally, the police booked 82,86,561 cases in 2024 and collected fines amounting to Rs 80,90,76,100. Among these, 4,79,162 were contact cases, while 78,07,399 were contactless cases booked by police.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

NEW Year celebrations turned tragic for two groups of friends, when four people were killed and six others were injured in two separate accidents in Ramanagara district since Tuesday night. In both cases, the drivers were found to be under the influence of alcohol.

Two youths were killed and six others were injured when their SUV toppled after the driver lost control, near Hosapalya on Magadi Road early Wednesday morning.

The deceased were identified as Manjunath (30) and car driver Ravikiran (29). Both were construction workers and residents of Hosapalya near Tavarekere. The injured are Kishan, Charan Kumar, Nagaraju, Byregowda, Anil and Santhosh, all residents of Ramanagara.

Police said the accident occurred around 3am Wednesday when a group of eight friends, all including the driver allegedly drunk, were going from Hosapalya towards Tavarekere to have tea. Ravikiran, who was allegedly overspeeding, took a sharp right turn near Hosapalya Cross and the vehicle toppled. Ravikiran and Manjunath died on the spot while the six injured were rushed to a nearby hospital. Magadi police registered a case.

CAR REARENDS TRUCK

In another accident, two men heading to Bengaluru from Mysuru after a party, lost control of their car and rear-ended a truck near Santhemala Circle on the Bengaluru-Malavalli Road in Sathanur police station limits on Tuesday night.

The deceased were identified as Niranjan (46) and Vishwanath (56), both residents of Electronics City. They worked in a manufacturing industry in the city.

Police said that around 11:45pm Tuesday, Niranjan and Vishwanath were returning to Bengaluru from Mysuru after a party. While driving at a high speed, the driver failed to notice a truck going in the front and rammed into it near Santhemala Circle. Passersby rushed the duo to a nearby hospital, but the doctors declared both of them brought dead. Investigations revealed that both were under the influence of alcohol.

Quota for women: HC notice to B'luru Bar assn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court issued notices to the Department of Cooperation, Registrar of Cooperative Societies, Advocates Association of Bengaluru (AAB) and Karnataka State Bar Council on a petition filed by an advocate seeking directions for 33 percent reservation for women candidates in the ensuing elections to be held for the governing council of the AAB for 2025-28.

A vacation bench of Justice Suraj Govindaraj issued the notices after hearing the petition filed by advocate Deeksha N Amrutesh and adjourned the hearing to January 6.

The petitioner stated that she approached the court because of the inaction of AAB and regulatory authorities in implementing the directives of the Supreme Court on gender representation in Bar association elections, mandating the reservation of at least one-third of executive committee seats for women and designated key posts, such as treasurer, exclusively for women candidates. These directives aim to ensure equitable participation of women in leadership roles within Bar associations across the country. Despite these binding judicial precedents, AAB and regulatory authorities failed to take steps to implement these measures in the upcoming elections of AAB scheduled for February 2025, she alleged.

The petitioner stated that she submitted representations to the authorities and AAB to amend its bylaws and implement directives of the Supreme Court, but they were not considered. This inaction violates the principle of accountability and transparency expected from an Institution of AAB's stature, she alleged.

CM EXPRESSES CONCERN OVER CORRUPTION

Siddaramaiah says everyone needs to work with commitment to bring in a positive change in society

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Wednesday expressed concern over increasing corruption, despite efforts to curb it.

Addressing the senior IAS, IPS, and Forest Service officers, CM Siddaramaiah said that corruption, instead of reducing, is increasing, despite efforts to check it. The Chief Minister said that he would not talk much about corruption and the election system has become bad. "If we all work as per our conscience, we can reach the target or at least make an honest effort to walk in that direction," the Chief Minister added.

Siddaramaiah sought senior officers' cooperation to improve the economic condition of the people and address regional imbalance. Everyone needs to work with a commitment to bring in a positive change in society, Siddaramaiah said.

He hit out at the Opposition for accusing the State Government of not allocating adequate funds for development. The CM said that they do not have funds for the new works as the previous BJP government had approved works to the tune of Rs 2,09,000 crore without making provision in the budget. They called the tenders, fixed agencies and started the work without allocating funds, he said. There are Rs 29,000 crore pending bills and that is the major reason, Siddaramaiah said.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah to government officials

The CM said that though Karnataka is in second place in the country in tax collection, the funds from the Centre are not adequate. Despite all that they are providing funds for development work and the officials must ensure that the funds allocated are used effectively, he said.

The departments that generate revenue and the departments that spend the money on development works should work together responsibly to ensure more development in the state, the CM said.

He said that the State Government is committed to addressing the regional imbalance and constituted a committee headed by economist Govind Rao to look at the measures taken based on the Nanjundappa committee report. The government spent Rs 35,000 crore for the development of the Kalyana Karnataka region, Siddaramaiah said.

He told officials that there will be ups and downs in life, and they should always need to work with confidence to face the challenges.

2024-2025 BUDGET WAS ₹27,354-CRORE REVENUE DEFICIT

There would be new tax on mineral-bearing lands, hike in royalty on minor minerals, apart from hike in excise duty for revenue generation and more stress would be on capital expenditure.

The special grants, as demanded by legislators, may feature in the budget, adding to the expenditure. Irrespective of their party affiliation, legislators wished that the expenditure on five guarantees be reduced by eliminating ineligible beneficiaries. But there would be no drastic cut as it would have a bad impression on the government, an official said. Of the Rs 3.7 lakh crore outlay for 2024-25, Rs 56,000 crore was earmarked for the five guarantee schemes.

Unlike his previous 14 budgets, which were revenue surplus, the budget for 2024-25 was Rs 27,354-crore revenue deficit.

THE YEAR AHEAD...

Cong govt fails to shake off graft, communalism taint

Dr A NARAYANA
Professor of Policy and Governance, Azim Premji University

STARTING Point 2025

Economic upsurge alongside the steep decline in political culture has been the hallmark of Karnataka for long, and the year 2025 is likely to see more of this trend. As the economy is poised to maintain a steady growth, state politics is likely to remain mired in corruption and caste and religious tension.

One complaint against the current regime ever since it came to power in 2023 has been that it has so far been unable to convince the people that its governance has in any way been different from the BJP government it ousted. It has not been able to give a corruption-free government, nor has it been able to act firmly against communal forces in the state. This is surprising given that the Congress made corruption and communalism of the previous BJP government the main issues in the 2023 elections.

Will 2025 be different? Unlikely.

Acting against political corruption would require Chief Minister Siddaramaiah to send out a clear message to his cabinet colleagues and officials against indulging in any corrupt practices and to take firm action whenever there is a violation. This is difficult for at least two reasons. First, Siddaramaiah does not seem to have firm control over his ministerial colleagues in the same way as during his first term between 2013 and 2018. Many of his ministers are strong regional chieftains and they are capable of winning elections on their own without the backing of the chief minister or the party.

They would do everything within their reach to secure themselves financially for the next contest rather than worry about the image of the government. Second, the chief minister himself came under the cloud over the alleged irregularities in connection with his wife receiving compensatory sites in Mysuru for a piece of land that a government agency acquired from her. Although prima facie there appears to be no evidence to implicate the chief minister in this case and the opposition BJP has been obviously trying to play it up, these developments have diminished the chief minister's moral authority to question corrupt practices of his colleagues.

As far as the Congress government's soft-pedalling of communal politics of the BJP and its frontal organisations is concerned, it is the result of the party's ideological ambiguity. This calls for a thorough secular orientation of the top brass and the rank and file of the party which is unlikely to happen in the short run. Thus, no major change can be expected in the government's approach towards handling communalism too, which is only going to grow as that remains the sole issue for BJP to consolidate its position in the state.

Much against the predictions of the doomsayers, the state's five welfare guarantee schemes have not financially ruined the state, at least so far. The state economy is surging ahead by registering a GSDP growth of 10.2 per cent, significantly surpassing the national average of 8.2 per cent. Tax revenue has been showing upward trends. As of September 2024, Karnataka recorded a 10 per cent year-on-year increase in GST collections. Investments are pouring in. Departments such as Industries and Commerce and Information Technology and Biotechnology have remained the most active agencies of the state holding roadshows to attract investment promises from both India and abroad. Even the Revenue Department, which has been generally a dormant agency of the state, has been actively pushing a reform agenda with the objective of promoting ease of business for investors and ease of life for the common people.

The controversial guarantee schemes are sure to continue unaffected. The political murmurs against the welfare schemes, heard even from ruling party legislators, have receded after the Congress registered an impressive win in the by-elections held to the three Assembly seats, wresting one seat each from the BJP and the JDS in the process. This is seen, among other things, as an endorsement of the five guarantee schemes. However, the welfare agenda of the government seems to have got stuck with these schemes. Political rhetoric has it that these schemes are not just welfare doles, but are aimed at building a welfare-centric Karnataka model of economic development.

However, there has not been any concrete thinking in this direction and the new year is unlikely to see anything change because such a reformulation of the welfare agenda requires a fresh approach to development imagination, and it is a long-drawn process.

The government is going to face a tough time ahead in managing multiple social tensions which have been simmering through the past two years. Mainly, it has the unenviable task of releasing the findings of the 10-year-old caste census figures. While OBC and SC/ST groups have been demanding the release of the findings, the dominant Vokkaliga and Lingayat communities are sternly opposing it as they have sensed that the census has found their actual numbers much smaller than what has always been believed to be. The second major issue is about the demand for sub-quota for the Left Hand Dalits. This issue might be taken to a logical conclusion in 2025, but it is certainly not going to be a smooth affair. And then, there is the ticklish question of addressing the demand from a numerically strong subsect of the Lingayats called Panchamashalis for their inclusion in the Category 2A of the Other Backward Classes' List. This is obviously being opposed by the OBCs.

Five months into the new year, the Congress Government will enter its third year in office. The third year, being the middle year of the five-year term, is the time when the government will have the last chance to take some tough decisions and prove that it is different from the one that it replaced two years ago. The fourth and fifth year are too close to the next elections for any government to be decisive except for announcing some freebies. So, the year 2025 is crucial, but has the government got the mettle?

Vijayendra calls on Shah, seeks his 'blessings' to strengthen BJP in state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AMID the growing internal bickering in Karnataka BJP, state party chief BY Vijayendra called on Union Home Minister Amit Shah in New Delhi on Wednesday. Vijayendra's meeting with Shah comes days after his meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

By meeting BJP Central leaders, Vijayendra wants to send out a strong message to his critics within the party, especially Vijayapura City MLA Bsanagouda Patil Yatnal, that the high command is with him and that there will not be any change in leadership.

"After Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, who is described as the Iron Man, the bravest Home Minister of the country, met Amit Shah to seek his blessings. Appropriate guidance was sought by explaining the programmes and struggles taken up since last year to organise the party in Karnataka," Vijayendra posted on 'X'.

In their meeting, the Shikaripura MLA discussed the BJP's organisational efforts in Karnataka, including ongoing programmes, struggles, and challenges arising from Congress rule. Vijayendra also sought guidance on how to address allegations against Congress ministers and strategies for strengthening the party in the coming days.

"...His (Shah) organisational skills have always been a source of inspiration for me in the work of building the party. Today's moments of meeting him, as usual, filled me with even more enthusiasm and confidence to take the organisation to the expected goal," Vijayendra, who completes one year in office as state BJP chief, elaborated.

Change in state unit chiefs' post, talks on in Big 3 parties

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

EVEN as there are no big elections, except for BBMP and zilla and taluk panchayat polls likely sometime this year, talks are on to change state presidents in all three major political parties — Congress, BJP and JDS.

In the ruling party Congress, lobbying is intense as the high command is deliberating on replacing Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar in adherence to the party policy of one man one post. Names of ministers Satish Jarkiholi from the ST Nayaka community, MB Patil and Eshwar Khandre – both Veerashaiva Lingayats, have been doing the rounds for a long time. Since Chief Minister Siddaramaiah represents the AHINDA community – acronym for minorities, backward classes and Dalits, the high command is unlikely to consider Satish for the post for now, said a Congress leader. Khandre from the Kalyana Karnataka region would be the best bet as he is ready to quit as minister if given the post.

In BJP, attempts are on to dislodge BY Vijayendra, who has just completed one year in office, and the campaign is led by senior leader Basanagouda Patil Yatnal. As it is likely that national party president JP Nadda, who is also the Union health minister, is likely to be replaced, Yatnal and his team wish that there would be a change in the state leadership too. But the party high command is unlikely to take a risk in Karnataka and would like to consult former CM BS Yediyurappa before taking such a major decision. Incidentally, Vijayendra is Yediyurappa's son. If the situation demands, former CM and Haveri MP Basavaraj Bommai could be asked to take on the mantle. Bommai recently met Yediyurappa, but what transpired between the two is not known. When Yediyurappa was made to step down as chief minister 'unceremoniously', he handpicked Bommai to replace him. "Though Yatnal is a Veerashaiva Lingayat, he has not emerged as the community leader. But at the same time, Vijayendra with the help of his father's image, has taken that position. He savvily handled the issue of MLC CT Ravi's alleged derogatory remarks against minister Laxmi Hebbalkar," observed MS Kiran, a political analyst based in Chikkamagaluru – Ravi's hometown.

Meanwhile, JDS wants to anoint union minister HD Kumaraswamy's son Nikhil as state president and he also has the blessings of his grandfather and party patriarch HD Deve Gowda. "If he had won the Channapatna bypoll, he would have got the post by now," remarked party insiders. Kumaraswamy, who has a busy schedule, has not been able to dedicate time for organisation. Gurmitkal MLA Sharanagouda Kandakuru, a Veerashaiva Lingayat, would replace Nikhil as JDS youth wing president, sources said.

POLITICAL THEATRE

No question of Priyank resigning, says Siddaramaiah

BENGALURU: Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has ruled out RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge's resignation over a contractor's death by suicide. The BJP is making politically motivated allegations against Priyank and there is no question of his resignation, Siddaramaiah told the media in Bengaluru on Wednesday. Contractor Sachin Panchal died by suicide in Bidar leaving behind a death note in which he accused a local Congress leader, a follower of Priyank, of harassing him. The BJP is demanding the minister's resignation and a CBI probe into the entire episode. Siddaramaiah said that Priyank's name is not mentioned in the death note and he has no role in it. The minister has already made it clear that he is ready to face any probe, the CM said. The case has been handed over to the CID for investigation and they will take appropriate action after getting the report, he said. On the BJP's demand for a CBI probe into the case, Siddaramaiah said the saffron party had not handed over any case to the Central agency when it was in power in Karnataka. They do not have any moral right to talk about it now, he said. The CM said the BJP MLC CT Ravi case has also been given to the CID and the FSL will give its report on the legislator allegedly using derogatory term against minister Laxmi Hebbalkar. On the Cabinet expansion, the CM said they would discuss it with the party Central leaders. ENS

Congress brass to decide on next KPCC chief, says Satish Jarkiholi

ENS @Belagavi

EVEN as the Congress high command still remains noncommittal about the appointment of a new KPCC president in place of DK Shivakumar, several party leaders continue to exert pressure on the top brass for a change of guard in the state unit of the party.

Karnataka PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi, a strong contender for the KPCC chief post, has said that the party high command should hold discussions on whether to allow one leader to hold two key positions. He, however, said that it was the top brass' prerogative to take a call on whether a new party president should be named for Karnataka.

Addressing the media in Belagavi, Satish said that party leaders from Belagavi region had proposed the name of one leader for the post of Belagavi district Congress unit. Another leader would also be shortly appointed as the president of Chikkodi Congress unit, he said.

On the possible division of Belagavi district, Jarkiholi said there was a proposal to split Belagavi district into separate districts but the issue was not there in the state budget.

DOWNWARD TREND

No cheers? Liquor sales dip against 'tough' target

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

LIQUOR sales in Karnataka saw a downward trend last year in comparison to the previous fiscal. According to the statistics from the Excise Department, between April and December last year, the department collected Rs 26,633 crore against the revenue target of Rs 38.525 crore for 2024-2025, which is 69.13% of the target.

In the financial year 2023-2024, the department had collected Rs 24,455 crore as against the revenue target of Rs 34,500 crore, which was 73.78% of the target.

December is regarded as the most buoyant month in the state excise calendar with Christmas and New Year's Eve as the highlights around which alcohol sales peak.

But in December last year, the Karnataka State Beverages Corporation Ltd (KSBCL) logged in only 61.82 lakh case boxes (CBs) of Indian Made Liquor (IML) as against 64.35 lakh boxes in December 2023 registering a negative growth of 3.93% in the month. One case box contains around 9 litres of liquor.

According to official data, KSBCL sold 527.82 lakh CBs between April and December in 2024 as against 533.26 lakh CBs in the corresponding period in 2023 registering a negative growth of 1.02%. Beer sales saw a 8.22% increase between April and December 2024 with 351.07 lakh CBs sold as against 324.4 lakh CBs during the corresponding period in the previous year.

According to informed sources, the dip in sales of IML is largely owing to "sprouting of alcohol shops by the Andhra Pradesh government at AP-Karnataka border with IML sold at competitive prices in comparison to Karnataka. Border districts like Chikkaballapur, Kolar, Ballari and Tumkaru are seeing fall in alcohol sales. Similarly, districts bordering Goa are also seeing dip in sales," said sources on condition of anonymity.

In October last year, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, who also holds the finance portfolio, had asked officials of top revenue generating departments — commercial taxes, excise, stamps and registration, transport and mines and geology to accelerate revenue collection and warned them that they would be held accountable if targets are not met. Excise, which contributes 20% of revenue to the state exchequer, is faced with realising an unprecedented revenue target of Rs 38,525 crore for the current fiscal 2024-2025.

"It is a challenge to realise 100% of the huge revenue target this fiscal. We now look forward to rural festivals during which there is a rise in alcohol sales and consumption. By March end, we hope to realise around Rs 37,000 crore. It is a tall expectation though," added sources. The lowest four slabs of IML contribute more than 80% of the revenue to the department.

WAYANAD LANDSLIDE

Rs 750-CR TOWNSHIP PROJECT FOR VICTIMS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'puram

KERALA Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Wednesday unveiled the township project to rehabilitate the victims of the July 30 Wayanad landslides. Estimated to cost Rs 750 crore, the township will come up on 58.5 hectares and 48.96 hectares of the Nedumbala Estate in Kottapadi village and Elstone Estate in Kalpetta village, respectively, in Wayanad.

The cabinet decision comes five days after the Kerala High Court, while dismissing the pleas of Harrisons Malayalam Ltd and Elstone Tea Estates Ltd on December 27 allowed the government to take over land for the project.

As per the government's decision, each beneficiary family will receive either five cents of land at Elstone Estate or 10 cents at Nedumbala Estate, calculatedon the basis of the land value. Pinarayi said the government strives to complete the rehabilitation as early as possible. "Activities are ongoing so that the final list of disaster-affected families is released by January 25," he said.

Families that lived in houses marked as 'no-go' zone will also be rehabilitated in the project, he said. A study done after the disaster had identified certain areas surrounding the affected places as landslide-prone and classified the houses as 'no-go' zone.

Pinarayi assured that beneficiaries will keep ownership of their land in the disaster-affected areas even after relocating to the township, and also get ownership of the respective properties in the township with a rider on the cut-off date for resale. "Though the Inter-Ministerial Central Team recommended the Home Ministry to declare the tragedy as a disaster of 'severe nature' within a month of the incident, no action was taken for two months. The inordinate delay denied us opportunity to secure additional assistance from UN agencies and NGOs," Pinarayi said. He also urged PM Modi to convene a meeting of the National Disaster Management Authority to consider the state's request.

Vulture flies 4,000km to reach TN from Maha

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @Chennai

A one-year-old captive-bred juvenile white-rumped vulture, listed as critically endangered on the IUCN Red List, has flown from the Tadoba National Park in Maharashtra to Pudukkottai in Tamil Nadu.

The vulture was GPS-tagged and released in Tadoba-Andhari in July as part of the Jatayu conservation initiative. The Maharashtra forest department and Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS) have GPS tagged 20 vultures (10 long-billed & 10 white-rumped), all brought from the Vulture Conservation Breeding Centre in Pinjore, Haryana. While the long-billed vultures were released in the Pench tiger reserve, the white-rumped ones were released in Tadoba. Of these, one juvenile white-rumped vulture has been observed to be wandering alone and flying long distances. As per GPS data shared to TNIE, the vulture has so far covered 4,000km, making pit stops in different states in the past five months. Data shows it even stopped in Chennai briefly.

Currently, the vulture has been spotted in Aranthangi at an abandoned agricultural farm, visibly exhausted. For the past four days, the bird has been stationed in the same location. BNHS then asked S Bharathidasan, founder of Arulagam, an NGO that works towards conservation of vultures in the Nilgiris biosphere, to check on the vulture since it stopped moving.

Bharathidasan told TNIE, "The bird is not injured. Because it has travelled such a long distance, probably without sufficient intake of food, it is exhausted. I was there on the spot observing the bird and gave one kg of meat, which it devoured. I will inform the forest department and request they capture the vulture and release it in the Mudumalai Tiger Reserve, which is home to a healthy vulture population especially in the Moyar valley."

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

— Ramnath Goenka

SPADEX: DOCKING WITH INDIA'S FUTURE SPACE CAPABILITIES

ON December 30, Indian Space Research Organisation embarked on a mission whose concept envisions its indispensable application in future exploratory missions. The space docking experiment or SpaDeX mission is linked to the plan for setting up India's own space station, named the Bharatiya Antariksh Station, by 2035 to carry out spacewalks and research in microgravity conditions.

Another important objective is to use this capability in the ambitious Chandrayaan-4 lunar mission, planned as a mission to bring back samples from the Moon, that is expected to be launched around 2027. This mission looks at returning with up to 3 kg of lunar regolith or surface deposits from near India's Shiv Shakti lunar station, Chandrayaan-3's landing site. As a forerunner to these goals, the ₹375-crore SpaDeX mission aims to autonomously dock two 220-kg, unmanned craft in space—SDX01, the chaser, and SDX02, the target.

Docking is a crucial procedure to facilitate transfer of astronauts and equipment to and from space stations. As part of the December 30 mission, Isro's PSLV-C60 launcher released the two spacecraft into a 470-km circular orbit at a 55-degree incline to the equator with a marginal relative velocity between the two. This is to enable the chaser SDX01 to close in on the target SDX02, and attach itself to the latter to achieve a successful docking on January 7. Post docking, electrical power transfer between the two spacecraft will be demonstrated before they are separated to begin working with their respective payloads for an expected mission life of up to two years.

The docking capability will be even more crucial in India's future manned lunar and other planetary missions, wherein it will allow astronauts in capsules to undock from the orbiting spacecraft and return to it after missions to dock again and head back home. The SpaDeX mission also carried the PS4-orbital experiment module-4 or POEM-4 using the spent fourth stage of PSLV-C60—which otherwise ends as space debris—carrying 24 payloads. Isro Chairman S Somanath is looking ahead at a series of SpaDeX missions involving heavier spacecraft with more complex docking systems. This needs to be diligently aligned with India's Space Vision 2047, which aims at being a leading space power, with its astronauts landing on the Moon using indigenous technologies.

SPARE COMMON CITIZEN, TAX SUBSIDISED INDUSTRY

THE new year does not promise to be very happy for Karnataka. Going by recent indications from the government, the ordinary citizen is likely to find a bigger hole in the pocket. After raising fuel and liquor prices, the Siddaramaiah government is looking at raising milk prices, water and electricity tariffs, bus fares and property tax. Having waited for the Lok Sabha elections to conclude on June 4 last year, the government delivered its first blow on June 15 by increasing sales tax on fuel, which pushed up the price of petrol and diesel by ₹3. In two years, the state has raised alcohol prices twice, and is also proposing a heavy tax on beer; its liquor prices are already the highest in south India. Critics say the Congress government, which rode to power on its five guarantees, is imposing taxes to fuel its promises—Anna Bhagya (free foodgrains), Gruha Jyoti (free power up to 200 units), Gruhalakshmi (₹2,000 for women), Shakti (free bus rides for women) and Yuva Nidhi (for unemployed youths)—which cost the government over ₹63,000 crore a year.

In early 2024, the government raised property registration costs with a massive 200-500 percent hike in stamp duty. With Bengaluru's real estate rapidly expanding, the government is looking to raise property tax to shore up its coffers. Though a power tariff hike is in the offing, it's also true that a rate cut last year had benefitted consumers. Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar has declared that water in Bengaluru will be 20-30 percent costlier—an increase after 12 years that is unavoidable if the government wants to avail a ₹3,500-crore World Bank loan for flood management and urban infrastructure. The ₹5 hike in milk prices will hit the common citizen hard. If bus fares are raised, it would mean that men end up paying for women passengers.

Taxing Prabhat to subsidise Parul may yield political dividends, but it could alienate the urban voter. Instead, the government should tap IT companies in the special economic zones that have benefited for long from tax holidays, duty-free imports, cheap land and other sops. Siddaramaiah, who is known for his financial expertise, should streamline the welfare schemes and balance politics and economics if his governance model is to succeed.

QUICK TAKE

HEALING AFTER REGRET

ONE and a half years after clashes between Manipur's two largest ethnic groups cleaved the state apart, chief minister Biren Singh has tendered an apology. Calling all of 2024 "very unfortunate", Singh told reporters on the last day of the year, "I want to say sorry to the people of the state for what's happening... Many people lost their loved ones, many people left their homes. I feel regret, I apologise." Though it came months too late, the admission is welcome. It should go some way in reassuring those who were despondent at the state's seemingly uncaring attitude. The government should now work on healing wounds with a similar thoughfulness.

Though Indian tech companies are investing heavily in AI, most of them are yet to move to the production stage. Robust data governance and partnerships can transform the industry

BEYOND THE HYPE: HOW INDIA CAN BE AN AI POWERHOUSE

RAJESH NAMBIAR President, Nasscom

IT'S been two years since the term 'generative AI' started gaining widespread attention. Although it wasn't new—it appeared on Gartner's 'hype cycle' as early as 2020—by the end of summer 2022, excitement was mounting around genAI tools capable of generating text, images and computer code.

The estimated $1-trillion investment in generative AI has yet to deliver widespread returns. As with every tech revolution, the hype will fade and real work will begin. This is where India's tech industry stands today—at the crossroads of immense opportunity and significant challenges.

In 2013, the MD Anderson Cancer Center at University of Texas launched a moonshot project to use IBM's AI-powered Watson system to diagnose certain cancers. By 2017, the $62-million project was paused without being used on patients. Meanwhile, the centre's IT team explored smaller-scale cognitive tools for tasks like assisting patients' families, identifying financial aid needs, etc. These efforts proved far more successful. The stark contrast between these two approaches offers valuable insights for anyone planning AI initiatives.

The Indian market is still in its early stages. There has been a 50 percent decline in the Indian genAI startup funding in the first half of 2024, compared to that of 2023. While there has been a seven-fold increase in activity by the Indian industry, over half are focused on new product launches.

Most Indian organisations are progressing towards mid-level AI/genAI maturity, with defined strategies and initial use cases aimed at scaling. While 75 percent of the 500 companies surveyed by Nasscom have AI strategies at the proof-of-concept (PoC) stage, only 40 percent demonstrate significant progress in moving to production. Collaborative efforts are driving advancements in telecom, enterprise tools and retail applications. There is growing emphasis on domain-specific fine-tuning and development of custom, small language models.

However, genAI's appeal comes from its transformative potential, often amplified by success stories. Despite billions poured into AI/genAI projects, Forbes reports that less than 15 percent of these initiatives make it to production. While there is a clear surge in genAI activities led by a strong uptick in product and go-to-market partnerships, the realisation of substantial, measurable impact remains in early stages.

The question arises: why does AI, especially with advances in genAI, fail to deliver expected returns? This reflects a set of broader challenges.

- Complex implementation: GenAI integration demands overhaul of existing systems and workflows, often requiring significant investments in infrastructure and process redesign. For unprepared businesses, it becomes a costly experiment.
- Data dependency: AI systems thrive on quality data, but many organisations grapple with fragmented, biased or inadequate datasets. Without data governance, outputs risk being unreliable or counterproductive.
- Talent deficit: Building and deploying genAI solutions requires a specialised workforce—data scientists, machine learning engineers and AI ethicists—who are in high demand and short supply.
- Ethical and regulatory challenges: From bias in algorithms to compliance with data protection laws, the ethical landscape of AI is fraught with challenges. Navigating these while ensuring business alignment is a tightrope act.

SOURAV ROY

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Despite these obstacles, the Indian tech industry has a solid foundation to harness AI for transformative change. With a median age of just 28—significantly younger than Europe's 44—India's demographic dividend is a powerful asset. This workforce is increasingly connected, supported by over 790 million mobile broadband connections, enabling rapid digital adoption.

Adding momentum is India's vibrant tech ecosystem, fuelled by thriving exports and a burgeoning deep-tech startup landscape. Indian developers rank among one of the largest contributors to platforms like GitHub, reflecting a strong base for innovation and collaboration. When paired with its robust digital public infrastructure, this ecosystem provides a strong foundation for emerging technologies to flourish.

India also stands as one of the world's largest markets for AI, backed by the second-largest AI talent pool with 4,20,000 professionals—manifolds larger than in most nations. As global players invest in the genAI race, India's vast tech talent and rapidly growing domestic market position it as a pivotal force in the expanding landscape.

The question for businesses, therefore, is not whether to embrace this wave, but how to do so effectively. For Indian enterprises to lead in this generational shift, a strategic pivot is necessary. Here's a roadmap to move from being genAI-ready to genAI-first.

- Shift from PoC to production: Focus on high-impact use cases with clear returns. Collaborating with disruptors and scaling successful pilots can accelerate this.
- Build talent and partnerships: Address talent shortages through continuous accelerated upskilling initiatives, partnerships with smaller firms and collaborations with academia to nurture expertise.
- Enhance infrastructure: Strengthen data governance frameworks to ensure security, accessibility and compliance. The industry is driving accessibility to affordable compute resources. The Telangana AI Mission offers startups time on CDAC's AI supercomputer AIRAWAT-PSAI; a recent partnership unlocked $200,000 in compute credits for deep-tech startups. Future efforts include collaborating with INDIAai Mission to set up 10,000 graphics processing units nationwide.
- Foster innovation through collaboration: Large enterprises should engage with startups for co-innovation, while small and medium businesses can leverage partnerships with similarly-sized tech firms to jumpstart AI initiatives.
- Prioritise measurable outcomes: Clear success criterions and a focus on returns are critical to validate genAI's value and sustain investments.

GenAI's journey mirrors that of other transformative technologies: a cycle of inflated expectations tempered by realities of implementation. The question is not whether this technology can deliver value; it is how businesses can align their investments with realistic, measurable outcomes.

Those who succeed will not only navigate the hype, but also emerge as leaders in the AI-driven economy. For these organisations, AI will not be a costly experiment but a cornerstone of sustainable growth.

IS AWARENESS ENOUGH TO RATTLE THE SYSTEM?

KAJAL BASU Veteran journalist

IT took one assassination to wake up America and the world to the fact that ideology and ideological opposition are, as revolutionary forces that impact society, possibly passé.

Luigi Mangione did not just put a couple of bullets through UnitedHealthcare CEO Brian Thompson: he upended the very idea that ideological extremism was a necessary circumstance for insurrectionism. For Mangione was, by all reports, a pleasant, privately-schooled frat boy from a wealthy and powerful Sicilian American family that is, in the BBC's words, "literally imprinted on Baltimore". Not the sort who would go gunning down multimillionaire hyper-corporate honchos because, as a handwritten document he had when he was arrested said, "these parasites simply had it coming".

That document was revelatory, for it had none of the phrases that are code for ideological extremism. Here was a young man no more than inordinately cheesed off with 'the system' of which UnitedHealthcare, a medical insurance company profiteering off the low citizenry's ill health—like all the other 1,160 health insurance companies in the US—was the apex predator.

He certainly is no Andreas Baader, not a communist, not even someone who had radical thoughts, leave alone a revolutionary grounding. Aside from his well-offness, he is the American everyman—always frustrated by the omnipotence and inequitability of high finance, but willing to extend his opposition to it only up to corporate-adjacent unionism.

Except that Mangione went and killed an archetype of hyper-corporatism. Mangione's focus is on a system primarily comprising health insurance companies that he described as "parasitic". He is not anti-neolib or anti-neocon. He is not fundamentally anti-capitalist.

On X, he followed podcaster Joe Rogan, Trump's nominee for health secretary Robert F Kennedy Jr, and Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, a Democrat. On Goodreads, he slotted a biography of Elon Musk in his favourites list, and gave Trump's vice president-elect J D Vance's memoir Hillbilly Elegy three out of five stars. He also gave four stars to anarchist Unabomber Theodore Kaczynski's manifesto, Industrial Society and Its Future.

He is sceptical about the left's "identity politics" and holds "wokeism" in disdain. The right is one with the federals charging him with "terrorism". The left cannot decide if he is "a center-right biohacking Thiel-loving tech bro" or "another far right MAGA Trumper terrorist".

So, where does one place Mangione, and why is it important to place him in the socio-political spectrum? People sceptical of his millions of supporters say he is a member of the Grey Tribe—a loose, technocratic thought-congregation opposed and thinking itself superior to the Red Tribe (Republicans and conservatives) and the Blue Tribe (Democrats and progressive liberals).

AP

> Luigi Mangione, a privately-schooled frat boy from a wealthy family, did not just kill health insurance honcho Brian Thompson in the heart of New York; he upended the idea that ideological extremism was a necessary condition for insurrectionism. Welcome to an age of anti-systemists

The Grey Tribe does not exactly have the deep state in its sights, but it is suspicious of its intended or unintended manifestations in government and the private sector. Like Musk, he thinks of "effective accelerationism" as a force for near-future good. Unlike wannabe revolutionaries, Mangione refused to "pretend to be the most qualified person to lay out the full argument".

The crowdfunding for Mangione's defence is skyrocketing: it was more than $200,000 a week ago, before the media pulled the plug on updates. So is his support base. A poll revealed that 41 percent of young voters found Mangione's action "acceptable"; 22 percent of Democrats agreed with his action, as did 16 percent of independents, and only 2 percent of Republicans.

"It is not an issue of awareness at this point, but clearly power games at play," wrote Mangione in his 'manifesto' (as released on journalist Ken Klippenstein's Substack, but not in the legacy media). There is no indication that Mangione has a deep understanding of the byzantine, ideology-mediated pedagogy of power.

"I am against the system!" has become an unideological but hardly powerless battle-cry. We cannot now predict if it will become the title sequence of Augusto Boal's Theatre of the Oppressed. But the possibility has set the intelligentsia in the US and the world alike thinking: What if it is possible to topple the system without using ideology? Have we come to the point that mere "awareness" of "power games" is enough to fuel violent or far-reaching expressions of discontent?

UnitedHealthcare is only a cog in the system, but it's a massive cog in the healthcare insurance system: in 2022, health insurers in the US earned about $1 trillion in total net earned premiums, with UnitedHealthcare accounting for $221 billion in premium writing. But popular grousing against the health insurance system has been increasing to encompass the System—the state. And the state often means the deep state, a shadowy hyperpower entity that is beyond ideology.

Donald Trump came to power posing as a defier of the system. Not six months will pass before ever more voters understand that he is the system, among other duplicitous strongmen: Hungary's Viktor Orbán, Turkey's Recep Tayyip Erdogan, Egypt's Abdel Fattah El-Sisi, Saudi Arabia's Mohammed bin Salman, Russia's Vladimir Putin, Israel's Benjamin Netanyahu, among others. Each of them is facing significant national opposition, often predicated not on ideology but on a broader, nebulous, and, therefore, also an all-encompassing antisystemism.

Anti-systemists are in the waiting room: Péter Magyar, Kemal Kılıçdaroglu, Ahmed al-Tantawi. And most of them are liberals.

Safety, mega infra projects high on rly agenda in '24

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

INDIAN Railways (IR) experienced a mixed year in 2024, marked by notable progress in infrastructure and modernisation but overshadowed by frequent accidents that damaged its safety reputation. While the Railway ministry showcased its achievements, challenges such as derailments, inadequate workforce and safety concerns remained prominent.

The Railways' major feat last year was the launch of 62 new Vande Bharat train services, four Amrit Bharat Express services, the first Namo Bharat Rapid Rail between Ahmedabad and Bhuj, completing many infrastructure advancements including 6,450 km track renewals, facilitating high speeds of 130 kmph to trains over 2,000 km of total track renewed.

Amid some incidents of derailments, the Railways also introduced the first Namo Bharat Rapid rail and completed 21,513 successful trips to clear passenger rush in peak periods. It also ensured the commissioning of 3,433 km of rail lines and operations on the Banihal-Khari-Sumber-Sangaldan section of the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla Rail Link. The Kolkata Metro hit a milestone with its Esplanade-Howrah Maidan section passing beneath the Hooghly river through India's first underwater tunnel.

Trains, projects

- Launch of 62 new Vande Bharat train services, 4 Amrit Bharat Express services, the first Namo Bharat Rapid Rail between Ahmedabad and Bhuj
- Completion of 6,450 km track renewals, facilitating high speeds of up to 130 kmph
- Commissioning of 3,433 km of rail lines on the Banihal-Khari-Sumber-Sangaldan section of the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla Rail Link

Derailments, collisions

- Agartala-Sealdah Kanchanjunga Express collision, Motiganj-Jhilahi passenger train derailment, a passenger train's collision with a derailed goods train in Jharkhand

Despite these strides, over 70 derailments, including major accidents such as the Agartala-Sealdah Kanchanjunga Express collision, the Motiganj-Jhilahi passenger train derailment, and a passenger train's collision with a derailed goods train in Jharkhand, raised safety alarms.

An inadequate workforce compounded the challenges, with Railway Board chairman Satish Kumar urging the finance ministry to authorise new non-gazetted posts in safety-critical areas.

The ministry, in its year-end statement for 2024, highlighted the redevelopment of 1,198 out of 1,337 stations under the Amrit Bharat Station Scheme. The introduction of the upgraded Kavach 4.0 train protection system also marked progress. Recruitment of 5 lakh employees in the last decade slightly exceeded the previous decade's figures. The Marathwada Rail Coach Factory began supplying Vande Bharat train sets.

Projects like the Vande Bharat sleeper train set prototype, the Rishikesh-Karnaprayag railway line scheduled for completion by December 2026, and the design of high-speed trains with 280 kmph design speed made progress. Additionally, the ministry increased general compartment coaches and introduced an annual recruitment calendar for Group' C' posts to streamline the hiring process.

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

INDIA and Pakistan on Wednesday exchanged the list of their nuclear installations under a bilateral agreement that prohibits the two sides from attacking each other's such facilities, continuing with an over-three-decade practice.

The regular exchange of these lists is considered a significant confidence-building measure between the two nations. "India and Pakistan today exchanged, through diplomatic channels, simultaneously at New Delhi and Islamabad, the list of nuclear installations and facilities covered under the agreement on the prohibition of attack against nuclear installation and facilities," the Ministry of External Affairs stated.

Agreement

The agreement on prohibition of attack against nuclear installations and facilities was signed on December 31, 1988, and came to force on January 27, 1991.

The exchange was conducted under the provisions of the Agreement on the Prohibition of Attack Against Nuclear Installations and Facilities, which was signed on December 31, 1988, and entered into force on January 27, 1991.

According to the agreement, both countries are required to notify each other of their nuclear installations and facilities covered under the accord on January 1 of each year. This marks the 34th consecutive exchange of such lists, with the first exchange taking place on January 1, 1992.

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

NEW Delhi on Wednesday urged Islamabad to expedite the release of 183 Indian nationals who have completed their prison sentences and called for immediate consular access to 18 more Indian prisoners now in Pakistani custody.

On Jan 15, 2 ships & sub to bolster Navy muscle

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

INDIA'S maritime capability and indigenous shipbuilding prowess get a major boost on January 15 of the new year when the Navy commissions three combat platforms — a frigate, a destroyer and a submarine.

The Navy on Wednesday said it is preparing to "commission three frontline combatants: Nilgiri, the lead ship of the Project 17A stealth frigate class; Surat, the fourth and final ship of the Project 15B stealth destroyer class; and Vaghsheer, the sixth and final submarine of the Scorpene-class project, together at the Naval Dockyard, Mumbai."

It is entirely a Make in India exercise. "All three platforms have been designed and constructed entirely at Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders Limited, Mumbai, a testament to India's growing self-reliance in defence production."

Their production catapults India into the global defence manufacturing club as well. "The successful commissioning of these advanced warships and submarines highlights the rapid progress made in warship design and construction, cementing India's position as a global leader in defence manufacturing."

Nilgiri, the lead ship of Project 17A, is a major advancement over the Shivalik-class frigates, incorporating significant stealth features and reduced radar signatures through state-of-the-art technology.

The Project 15B destroyer, Surat, is the culmination of the follow-on class to the Kolkata-class (Project 15A) destroyers, featuring big improvements in design and capabilities.

Indian Navy's Warship Design Bureau designed and equipped them with advanced sensors and weapon packages developed primarily in India or through strategic collaborations with leading global manufacturers.

The ships also include specific accommodations to support a sizable complement of women officers and sailors, aligning with the Navy's steps towards gender inclusion in frontline combat roles.

Equipped with modern aviation facilities, Nilgiri and Surat can operate a range of helicopters, including Chetak, ALH, Sea King, and the newly inducted MH-60R, during both day and night operations. Features such as a rail-less helicopter traversing system and a visual aid and landing system ensure seamless operations under all conditions.

As per the Navy, Vaghsheer, the sixth Scorpene-class submarine under the Kalvari-class Project 75, is one of the world's most silent and versatile diesel-electric submarines.

"It is designed to undertake a wide range of missions, including anti-surface warfare, anti-submarine warfare, intelligence gathering, surveillance and special operations. Armed with wire-guided torpedoes, anti-ship missiles, and advanced sonar systems, the submarine also features modular construction, allowing for future upgrades such as integrating Air Independent Propulsion technology," it said.

The vessels have undergone rigorous trials, including machinery, hull, fire-fighting, and damage control assessments, and proving all navigation and communication systems at sea, making them fully operational and ready for deployment.

MT-CHETTAN: A STAUNCH ADVOCATE OF FREE SPEECH

OPINION

SHASHI THAROOR
Congress MP

MT Vasudevan Nair, fondly known to me and countless others as "MT-chettan" or elder brother, was a towering figure in Malayalam literature and cinema. His contributions have left an indelible mark on both the fields, making him one of the most celebrated and respected personalities not just in Kerala's cultural history, but also India's.

As an author of searing and insightful fiction, MT authored nine novels and 19 collections of short stories, each reflecting the socio-political changes in and cultural renaissance of Kerala. His first major novel, Naalukettu (1958), or 'The House with the Inner Courtyard', dealt with the decaying feudal Nair family system and won the Kerala Sahitya Akademi Award. Other notable works include Asuravithu (1962), a disturbing work of human degeneration that literally translates as 'Demon Seed', and Randamoozham (1984), 'Second Turn', which retells the Mahabharata from Bhima's perspective – Bhima's was the 'second turn' with Draupadi.

MT's works often explored the complexities of human relationships, the decay of traditional family systems, and the socio-economic transformations of Kerala. His writing style is characterised by its lyrical quality, deep empathy, and profound understanding of human nature. It received numerous accolades, including the prestigious Jnanpith Award in 1995, the highest literary honour in India. He was also awarded the Padma Bhushan in 2005 for his contributions to literature and education.

As if this were not enough, MT Vasudevan Nair was also the long-serving editor of the prestigious Malayalam weekly magazine, Mathrubhumi Azhchapathippu (Weekly), which he first joined as a young sub-editor in 1957. As editor over two long stints (1968-81 and 1989-99), MT's editorial skills were widely recognised. He was known for his meticulous approach to editing and his ability to bring out the best in writers. He had a keen eye for spotting and nurturing literary talent, making the Weekly a platform for many emerging writers, who later became prominent figures in Malayalam literature. Notable authors like OV Vijayan, Sethu, M Mukundan, Paul Zacharia, and Sarah Joseph were among those whose careers were launched or significantly shaped by MT.

As a writer and editor, MT was a staunch advocate of free speech and often used his editorial position to promote progressive ideas and social justice. His insistence on maintaining high editorial standards and his commitment to truth and integrity earned him immense respect in the literary community. My parents were regular subscribers to the Mathrubhumi and great admirers of his editorial excellence. His tenure at Mathrubhumi Weekly is often remembered for the high quality of content and the magazine's role in shaping the literary landscape of Kerala. MT's contributions as an editor were instrumental in elevating Mathrubhumi Weekly to the leading position in Malayalam journalism and literature, which it never quite recovered after his departure.

As a writer and editor, MT Vasudevan Nair was a staunch advocate of free speech and often used his editorial position to promote progressive ideas and social justice. His insistence on maintaining high editorial standards and his commitment to truth and integrity earned him immense respect in the literary community.

All these would have been a considerable set of accomplishments for any writer, but MT also wrote the screenplays for more than 50 films and directed seven, making significant contributions to Malayalam cinema and winning the National Film Award for Best Screenplay four times. As a director, he helmed six films, including the iconic and disturbing Nirmalayam (1973), which won the National Film Award for Best Feature Film. His films are known for their strong narratives, deep characterisations, and cultural authenticity. MT's works in cinema mirrored the socio-political changes in Kerala and often highlighted the struggles of the common man. His films and screenplays have been instrumental in shaping the narrative style of many subsequent filmmakers and have set a significant standard of thematic depth for Malayalam cinema.

In both his writing and his cinematic work, MT was known for his staunchly secular and anti-communalist outlook and his searing critiques of the socio-cultural issues of his time. His works emphasized the importance of love, unity, and a modern outlook for societal progress. He often highlighted the complexities of human relationships and the socio-political realities of Kerala, sometimes harshly. This has prompted some critics to attack him as "anti-Hindu" or "anti-Muslim". Such charges are unduly simplistic. While he critiqued certain aspects of religious practices and the exploitation associated with them, his concerns were more about addressing the broader issues of social justice and human dignity rather than hostility towards any particular religion.

For all this, however, MT has faced criticism for his portrayal of women; some have even called him misogynistic, arguing that his female characters often conform to traditional gender roles and lack agency. For instance, the female protagonist in Naalukettu is depicted as submissive and dependent on male characters. Similarly, in Randamoozham, the portrayal of Draupadi has been criticised for being one-dimensional and reinforcing patriarchal norms. In his defence, it must be said that MT's writings reflect the socio-cultural milieu of his time, and his characters often mirror the realities of the society he observed as a male writer. While some of his portrayals may seem outdated by contemporary standards, they also provide valuable insights into the historical and cultural context of Kerala.

MT Vasudevan Nair's overall legacy is one of profound influence and inspiration. His works continue to be celebrated for their literary excellence and cinematic brilliance. They have inspired generations of readers and filmmakers, and his influence on Malayalam literature and cinema is undeniable. MT remains a guiding light for future generations of writers and filmmakers, embodying the spirit of creativity, authenticity, and cultural pride. In a society that deeply reveres its writers and intellectuals, his no-nonsense clarity and trenchant views will be greatly missed.

C'garh 1st state in country to link forest ecosystem with Green GDP

Tendu leaves, lac, honey and medicinal plants contribute significantly to rural economy

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

AS a first, Chhattisgarh has introduced an innovative plan that connects the ecosystem services of its forests with the Green Gross Domestic Product (Green GDP). The move aims to highlight the pre-eminent environmental contributions of forests, like clean air, water conservation, and biodiversity, and link them to the state's economic progress.

The action plan ensures achieving economic development while preserving the environment for future generations. The new approach assesses forests' often-overlooked benefits, such as regulating the climate, enriching soil quality, purifying water and absorbing carbon dioxide. The government will include these services in its economic planning exercise.

The natural resources of Chhattisgarh, with forests covering 44 percent of its land area, are central to the livelihoods of millions of people. Forest products like tendu leaves, lac, honey, and medicinal plants contribute significantly to the rural economy, while forests also play a crucial role in mitigating climate change by absorbing carbon.

Salient features of scientific assessment of

FOREST ECOSYSTEM

To accurately estimate the economic value of forests and the essential ecosystem services

CLEAN AIR

Amount of CO_2 absorbed by trees and converted into Oxygen will be quantified and its market value will be added to Green GDP

WATER CONSERVATION

The water provided by forest through rivers, springs crucial for agriculture and daily needs will be calculated for its economic impact

BIODIVERSITY

The contribution of forest fauna (animals, birds, insects) to maintain ecological balance and aiding farming in the context of broader economy

"This ambitious step aligns with PM Narendra Modi's vision of 'Developed India 2047'", CM Vishnu Deo Sai said.

The initiative will allow for a comprehensive valuation of forests with an emphasis on their economic and environmental benefits. "By linking these benefits to the Green GDP, Chhattisgarh intends to improve budget planning and create policies prioritising economic growth and ecological sustainability", V Sreenivasa Rao (PCCF & Head of Forest Force) told this newspaper.

The findings of a recent report by the India State of Forest Report said there is a remarkable increase in forest and tree cover in Chhattisgarh, apparently owing to biodiversity protection and environmental and forest conservation efforts.

Through the new measures taken, Chhattisgarh strives to conserve the state's forest wealth and recognises its value beyond timber and resources.

CM Sai underlined the cultural and religious significance of Chhattisgarh's forests, which are deeply tied to tribal traditions and provide spiritual solace to local communities.

The forests contribute to employment through eco-tourism activities, such as jungle safaris and camping in popular national parks. To accurately estimate the economic value of forests, the scientists will assess the essential ecosystem services they provide.

The state's pioneering step to link forest ecosystem services with Green GDP represents a significant step towards integrating environmental health with economic development. Environmentalists hope this will set a precedent for other regions to follow in achieving sustainable development.

BJP, Cong spar over 'injustice to Patidar woman'

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

A political slugfest intensified in Gujarat after former Congress MLA Pratap Dudhat alleged that a Patidar woman was falsely branded a criminal, arrested at midnight, and paraded publicly.

The row began after a fake letter targeted BJP MLA from Amreli Kaushik Vekaria. The letter, which went viral on social media, falsely accused Vekaria of accepting bribes for sand and liquor smuggling. It was written using a fake letterhead of Amreli taluka panchayat president Kishore Kanpariya and carried a forged signature. The allegations caused an uproar within the Amreli BJP. In a show of support, around 100 leaders and Vekaria's supporters escalated the matter to Gujarat BJP president CR Patil.

Meanwhile, Kishore lodged a complaint at Amreli police station, demanding action against those behind the fake letter. Police arrested four accused, including prime suspect and former BJP office-bearer Manish Vaghasia and the woman, on December 28. The next day, all four accused were brought together for a reconstruction of the incident.

Former Congress MLA Dudhat accused BJP leaders of falsely defaming the Patidar woman and raised the issue in a letter to CM Bhupendra Patel and the Patidar organisation. "The Patidar woman has been falsely accused by BJP leaders in Amreli without proper probe," Dudhat said. "She was arrested at midnight and paraded on the city's main road by the police. Such actions by BJP's Patel leaders are nothing but an attempt to satisfy their egos," he added.

BJP spokesperson Shraddha Rajput hit back at the Congress, accusing it of playing dirty politics. "The Congress is twisting the legal process into a baseless narrative," she said.

Amreli district police chief Sanjay Kharat dismissed the allegations saying the legal process was followed thoroughly.

BJP alleges Cong link in 'crorepati constable' case

Recent raids at the premises of former transport department constable-turned-businessman Saurabh Sharma has sparked yet another dispute in the long-drawn political rivalry between first-time BJP MLA from Pichhore seat of Shivpuri district Pritam Lodhi and six-time former Congress legislator from the seat, KP Singh Kakkajoo. Lodhi has linked the unaccounted wealth seized from Sharma to former minister Kakkajoo and also demanded a probe into it. Lodhi had lost two straight elections to Kakkajoo, before winning the seat in 2023, when the veteran Congress leader shifted to the Shivpuri seat.

Agra man kills mom, 4 sisters in Lucknow hotel over property dispute

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A man, in his mid-20s, killed his four sisters and mother in connivance with his father inside a hotel room in Lucknow on Wednesday. The man, identified as Arshad, then walked to the police station and surrendered, but not before dropping his father Mohammed Badar at the Charbagh railway station.

The family hailed from Agra and had come to Lucknow after a visit to Ajmer. Arshad later alleged land-related harassment by some members of his community in their hometown Agra and claimed they were plotting to sell his sisters in Hyderabad.

The incident sparked panic in the densely-populated Naka area of the state capital after the police arrived at the small hotel, discovering five bodies of the 45-year-old woman and her four daughters, aged between 9 and 19 years.

After killing his family, the accused Arshad reportedly filmed a video where he not only showed the lifeless bodies of his mother and sisters but also explained the reason behind the killings, blaming his neighbours for the extreme step.

As per DCP (Central) Raveena Tyagi, Arshad and his father Mohammad Badar (55) were the prime suspects of the crime and they had confessed to it.

DCP Tyagi said Mohammad Arshad was taken into custody and further investigation was on while Badar still remained at large. Police teams were going through CCTV footages to nab the father.

The DCP said the family was from Islamnagar, Kuberpur in Agra, and they arrived to Lucknow on December 30 and booked a room at the hotel for two days.

She said the injuries on the bodies suggested that the accused strangled all five women to death, and the lack of resistance raises suspicion that the deceased were given sedative-laced food before being killed. Their wrists were also slit with a blade.

"In the initial interrogation, accused Arshad confessed to killing his four sisters and mother and said that people in the neighbourhood were harassing his family," DCP Tyagi said, adding that probe was on.

Come Jan 26, Modi likely to flag off Delhi-Baramulla direct train

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

HISTORY is in making as work on the monumental 172-km Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla Railway Line (USBRL) connecting Kashmir with the country's rail network is nearing completion. An inspection by the Commissioner of Railway Safety (CRS) of the 17-km Katra-Reasi stretch would be held on January 7 and 8. It would pave the way for plying of trains.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi may most likely flag off the first train from Delhi to Baramulla on January 26. Final preparations are ongoing on the Katra-Reasi stretch, which has faced difficulties in construction, especially the construction of 3.2-km-long Tunnel T-33 (earlier known as T1).

Located at the foothills of Vaishno Devi shrine, the tunnel took eight years to complete due to its technical complexity. The final electricity works are being rapidly completed and is expected to finish soon.

The 272 kms long Udhampur-Baramulla railway project built at the cost of ₹37,012 crores will extend the train connectivity from Baramulla in north Kashmir to rest of the country. At present, the train services operate between Baramulla to Sangaldan (Ramban district).

We are having regular meetings with MHA, security officials of J&K and paramilitary officials. All measures have been put in place for smooth plying of trains and safeguarding assets — Northern Railways

The CRS would conduct a detailed inspection of the 17-km stretch on January 7 and 8 and its green signal would pave for rail connectivity between Delhi and Baramulla.

If everything goes as planned, it is expected that PM Narendra Modi may flag off the first train between Baramulla to Delhi on January 26. It would mark significant milestone in development of J&k's infrastructure and economy.

Northern Railways General Manager Ashok Kumar Verma emphasised the importance of security for the project.

"We are having regular meetings with MHA and security officials of J&K and paramilitary officials. All measures have been put in place for smooth plying of trains and safeguarding the assets," he said.

The trains will operate during the day and Railways would avoid plying trains in the late hours due to security concerns as deployment on highways and other places are withdrawn in the evening.

In another key development, PM Modi would virtually inaugurate Jammu Railway Division on January 6. At present, Jammu comes under Firozepur division of Northern Railways.

BANGLADESH UNREST

INFILTRATORS COMING TO INDIA TO WORK IN TEXTILE MILLS: SARMA

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

ASSAM Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Wednesday dropped a bombshell claim that a section of India's textile industry is illegally "importing" cheap labourers from Bangladesh where the industry has taken a hard hit in the aftermath of the unrest that brought down the government of Sheikh Hasina.

"The Assam Police are detecting 20 to 30 infiltrators every day and an equal number of people are seen in Tripura also. When we tried to understand why this is happening, we found the textile industry in Bangladesh has virtually collapsed after the unrest," Sarma said. He alleged that many textile factory owners in India were making use of the situation and are incentivising textile workers there to come to India and work in factories here with better pay. "We have to strike at those industrial houses that are incentivising people to come to India in the form of cheap labour," Sarma said, adding the Centre is taking the issue seriously.

He said he has discussed the matter with counterparts in the Northeast and West Bengal. "I have also discussed it with Home Minister Amit Shah in my last meeting," Sarma said.

However, industry representatives in Tamil Nadu denied Sarma's claim.

"After a similar alert in August, we verified the documents, including Aadhaar, of workers working in knitwear manufacturing units. The police are also actively investigating. However, no illegal entries were found," K M Subramanian, president of Tiruppur Exporters' Association, said. He added that units are not incentivising such workers either.

Climate change, rising production costs upset Himachal's apple cart

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

WITH weather becoming warmer due to climate change and cost of production increasing, apple growers in Himachal Pradesh now prefer to grow stone fruits. Himachal is the second largest producer of apples after Jammu and Kashmir. Farmers and horticulture officials say the net profit in apple cultivation has reduced to below 50% of the total sale.

"Due to freak weather and high cost of production, the apple production is going down as the growers are now venturing into stone fruits like almonds, plum, apricot, cherry besides persimmon. The cost of production has increased by 30-40% as more fungal infections and pest attacks on apple crop require more medicines and output is less," said Rakesh Singha, a leading apple grower in Shimla district.

"The weather is now warm. For the traditional apple varieties 1,400 chilling hours in winter (dormant period) is required. As snowfall is less now, it is more of a dry winter season. For apple crop to grow properly, there are not enough chilling hours, which should be there between November and January," Singha said.

Fresh spell of snow

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has predicted another spell of rain and snowfall from Thursday in Himachal

Besides, the horticulture department is pushing for diversification under the Himachal Pradesh Horticulture Development Project. The department projected 2.91 crore boxes of apple for 2024 but by October 30, only 2.07 crore had been dispatched. Sanjay Chauhan, another apple grower, said, "Due to the effects of climate change the apple productivity is decreasing as growers are preferring to grow stone fruits, and also pears and persimmon. Fungal attacks on apple crops have increased manifold and now minimum 10 -12 sprays are needed. But hardly any spray is required on pears."

Himachal has 11 lakh hectares under cultivation, with two lakh hectares dedicated to fruit orchards. Apple growers occupy around 1 lakh hectares. On an average, the state produces about 5.5 lakh metric tonnes of apple every year. The apple economy contributes over ₹5,500 crore to the state every year, according to government data.

Apple grower Harish Chauhan said, "Apple production it declined year by year to only 2.09 crore boxes in 2024. This year there is some hope as due to early snowfall, the apple plant will get more chilly hours, so production might increase."

Stage set for urban local body polls in Uttarakhand

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

COMPETITION has intensified for the January 23 elections to the five municipal corporations in Uttarakhand.

Despite a setback in the last Lok Sabha elections, the Congress saw its vote share increase, suggesting that this year's municipal elections—especially in the capital and the five corporations—could take an intriguing turn.

All eyes are now on the electoral dynamics of the state's five major municipal corporations: Dehradun, Haldwani, Kashipur, Haridwar, and Srinagar. Currently, the BJP occupies the mayoral seats in Dehradun, Haldwani, and Kashipur, while the Congress holds Haridwar and Srinagar.

Speaking to TNIE, Chief Election Officer Dr BVRC Purushottam said, "Nominations for the Uttarakhand municipal elections have been completed, and the scrutiny process is currently underway. Voting will take place on January 23, with results expected to be announced on January 25."

Political analyst Avikal Thapliyal stated, "There is a significant fundamental difference between the two political parties. The BJP has a robust organizational structure from the state level down to the booth level whereas Congress candidates have to rely on their own efforts." The disparity could play a crucial role, he added.

For the Dehradun mayoral election, the BJP has selected Saurabh Thapliyal, who hails from the party's youth wing. Congress has strategically chosen veteran Virendra Pokhriyal. Both candidates have strong political backgrounds and have emerged from student politics. Pokhriyal is the former president of the state's largest DAV College. Thapliyal enjoys considerable popularity among youth.

With 7,65,000 voters across 100 wards in the Dehradun Municipal Corporation, the upcoming elections promise to be highly competitive. "This election is crucial as it encompasses nearly five legislative constituencies," remarked a local political expert.

UKRAINE SHUTS RUSSIAN GAS SUPPLY TO EU THROUGH ITS PIPELINE NETWORK

Moldova will be hardest-hit by the move as harsh winter sets in

KYIV

UKRAINE on Wednesday halted Russian gas supplies to European customers through its pipeline network after a prewar transit deal expired at the end of last year.

Ukraine's energy minister, Herman Halushchenko, confirmed on Wednesday morning that Kyiv had stopped the transit "in the interest of national security."

"This is a historic event. Russia is losing markets and will incur financial losses. Europe has already decided to phase out Russian gas, and (this) aligns with what Ukraine has done today," Halushchenko said in an update on the Telegram messaging app.

At a summit in Brussels last month, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy vowed that Kyiv would not allow Moscow to use the transits to earn "additional billions ... on our blood, on the lives of our citizens." But he had briefly held open the possibility of the gas flows continuing if payments to Russia were withheld until the war ends.

Russia's Gazprom said in a statement on Wednesday morning that it "has no technical and legal possibility" of sending gas through Ukraine, due to Kyiv's refusal to extend the deal.

Even as Russian troops and tanks moved into Ukraine in 2022, Russian natural gas kept flowing through the country's pipeline network — set up when Ukraine and Russia were both part of the Soviet Union — to Europe, under a five-year agreement. Gazprom earned money from the gas and Ukraine collected transit fees.

Before the war, Russia supplied nearly 40% of the European Union's pipeline natural gas. Gas flowed through four pipeline systems, one under the Baltic Sea, one through Belarus and Poland, one through Ukraine and one under the Black Sea through Turkey to Bulgaria. After the war started, Russia cut off most supplies through the Baltic and Belarus-Poland pipelines, citing disputes over a demand for payment in rubles. The Baltic pipeline was blown up in an act of sabotage, but details of the attack remain murky.

The Russian cutoff caused an energy crisis in Europe. Germany had to shell out billions of euros to set up floating terminals to import liquefied natural gas that comes by ship, not by pipeline. Users cut back as prices soared. Norway and the U.S. filled the gap, becoming the two largest suppliers. AP

Probe on as man rams truck into crowd, kills 10

NEW ORLEANS

A driver rammed a vehicle into a crowd of New Orleans revelers early on New Year's Day, killing 10 people and injuring 35 others in what the FBI is investigating as an act of terrorism. The driver was killed in a firefight with police following the attack, the FBI said.

Investigators were combing the French Quarter for potential explosive devices, a law enforcement official said. FBI Assistant Special Agent in Charge Alethea Duncan said officials were investigating at least one suspected improvised explosive device at the scene.

At a news conference, New Orleans Mayor LaToya Cantrell described the killings as a "terrorist attack" and the city's police chief said the act was clearly intentional. New Orleans Police Commissioner Anne Kirkpatrick said the driver was "hell-bent on creating the carnage and the damage that he did."

"It was very intentional behavior. This man was trying to run over as many people as he could," Kirkpatrick said. After the vehicle stopped, the driver emerged and open fire on responding officers, police said. Officers returned fire, killing the driver, police said. Two officers were wounded and are in stable condition, police said. Crowds in the city were ballooning in anticipation of Wednesday night's Sugar Bowl college football playoff game between Georgia and Notre Dame at the nearby Superdome. The stadium was on lockdown Wednesday morning, but the game was expected to go on as scheduled. AP

Car sales slow to multi-yr low in CY24

Passenger vehicle sales grew by just 4.5%-4.7% to slightly over 4.3 million units in CY2024

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

PASSENGER vehicle (PV) sales growth fell to a multi-year low in Calendar Year 2024 as the industry grappled with significant challenges in maintaining the post-pandemic growth momentum.

Preliminary data indicates that PV sales (factory dispatches to dealer showrooms) grew by just 4.5%-4.7% to slightly over 4.3 million units in CY2024. This marks the slowest growth in four years, compared to 8.3% in 2023, 23% in 2022, and a staggering 30% in 2021.

While industry experts believe this deceleration is partly due to a high base effect, the challenges facing the sector cannot be ignored. Demand for affordable cars — those priced under ₹10 lakh — has been on a steady decline for several quarters. This trend reflects concerns over shrinking purchasing power among middle income consumers, particularly in urban areas.

India's largest carmaker - Maruti Suzuki's - sales were also all-time high at 17,90,877 vehicles in CY24, up by just 2.7% year-on-year. The carmaker recorded its highest ever wholesales after 6 years (CY2018 was 17,51,919 units (previous high), CY2023 it was 17,42,680 units.) Partho Banerjee, Senior Executive Director of Maruti Suzuki said that SUV contribution in total PV sales from Jan to Nov was around 54.7 % so it should be around this number in full CY24.

Hyundai Motor India (HMIL) also recorded its highest-ever yearly domestic sales of 605,433 units in CY 2024. However, it is a growth of 0.6% when compared to CY2023 sales. "HMIL has managed to sustain sales momentum in 2024, despite strong headwinds faced by the industry at large," said Tarun Garg, Chief Operating Officer at HMIL.

Shailesh Chandra, managing director of Tata Motors Passenger Vehicles said the PV industry posted moderate growth in CY24 and is expected to touch a sales volume of 4.3 million units, with strong growth in the SUV segment and sustained traction for emission-friendly powertrains. For Tata Motors, CY24 was the fourth consecutive year of highest-ever annual sales with 565,000 units sold. However, the growth rate is just about 2.7% given the automaker sold nearly 551,000 PVs in CY23. "Looking ahead, we remain optimistic about the outlook for the PV industry," added Chandra. On the back of a strong portfolio of utility vehicles, Mahindra & Mahindra outperformed the industry growth rate in 2024.

Decline partly due to high base effect

While industry experts believe this deceleration is partly due to a high base effect, the challenges facing the sector cannot be ignored. Demand for affordable cars — those priced under ₹10 lakh — has been on a steady decline for several quarters. This trend reflects concerns over shrinking purchasing power among middle income consumers, particularly in urban areas

Ola Electric's mkt share falls, Bajaj on top

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

OLA ELECTRIC'S market share in the electric two-wheeler space declined below the 20% mark in December 2024 and it has conceded its leadership position to Bajaj Auto.

According to the Vahan data, Bajaj Auto led the e-two-wheeler market with a nearly 25% share in December as its sales stood at 18,276 units.

Meanwhile, the total electric two-wheeler market fell to 73,316 units in December from 119,654 units in November.

The second spot was taken by Chennai-based TVS Motor whose share stood at 23.48% as it sold 17,212 units in December. Ola Electric held an 18.78% market share last month and its sales stood at 13,769 units.

Ola's market share has been declining steadily over the past few months: from 49% in June 2024 to less than 19% in December.

The decline in sales for the Bengaluru-based electric vehicle maker comes despite it offering steep discounts. The company is also grappling with high-profile exits in recent times.

Despite the dip, Ola Electric had the highest market share of 35.5% for the entire calendar year 2024. Total electric vehicle sales stood at 11.4 lakh units in calendar year 2024.

GST collection growth slows down in December to 7.3%

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE growth in monthly GST collection slowed down further in December, with gross revenue during the month registering a growth of 7.3% to Rs 1.77 lakh crore. In November, the gross revenue had increased by 8.5% to ₹1.85 lakh crore.

In the current financial year, the gross monthly GST revenue grew at a double-digit rate only in three out of nine months.

During December, gross revenue from domestic transactions grew at 8.4% to ₹1.32 lakh crore while those from imports grew at 3.9% to ₹44,268 crore. Year-to-date, the gross revenue has increased by 9.1% to ₹16.33 lakh crore.

Net GST collection (net of refunds) grew at an even slower pace of 3.3% to ₹1.54 lakh crore in December. This is the slowest growth in net monthly GST revenue in the current financial year. In November, the net collection had grown at 11.1% to ₹1.63 lakh crore. Refunds during December grew at 45.3%.

India's recent GST collections have slowed down slightly, which is typical after the holiday season, says Saurabh Agarwal, tax partner, EY India, adding that it is well in line with expectations as we have been witnessing slight decrease in consumer spending over the past few months.

In the first nine months of FY25, the net goods and services tax collection stood at ₹14.5 lakh crore. Of that, ₹2.8 lakh crore has been collected under Central GST, ₹3.5 lakh crore has been collected under State GST, and ₹7.08 lakh crore has been collected under the Integrated GST. Net Cess collection in the April-December period was ₹1.1 lakh crore.

Most large states showed low single-digit growth rate during the month. GST collection in UP and MP grew at 1% and Bihar at 2%. Gujarat revenue grew at 4% and West Bengal at 5%. Karnataka registered a growth of 7%, Rajasthan 8% and Maharashtra grew at 9%. However, Tamil Nadu at 11% and Telangana at 10% bucked the trend, and posted double-digit growth. Collections in Andhra Pradesh contracted by 6% during the month.

Market kicks off 2025 with decent gains

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DOMESTIC equity markets kicked off calendar year 2024 on a positive note as the benchmark indices – BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty - ended higher on Wednesday (January 1). The Sensex gained 368.40 points or 0.47% to settle at 78,507.41 and the Nifty surged 98.10 points or 0.41% to close at 23,742.90.

The broader market, especially the Nifty Smallcap 100, outpaced benchmark Nifty50, setting positively with gains of 1%. Sector-wise, Nifty Auto rose by over 1.3%, while the realty index saw a correction of 1.1%. "The sustainability of the trend will depend on the earnings growth in Q3, where the expectation is positive on a QoQ basis. An uptick in core sector data and prospect of ramp-up in capex spending by the government in the remaining part of the fiscal aided sectors like capital goods, industrials, auto, and power," said Vinod Nair, head of Research, Geojit Financial Services.

With this, the Tata Group airline has become the first player to offer in-flight Wi-Fi internet connectivity on flights within India.

Air India will roll out the service on other aircraft in its fleet over time. As with the domestic offer, Wi-Fi is complimentary for an introductory period. The deployment of Wi-Fi on domestic routes follows an ongoing pilot programme on international services operated by Airbus A350, select Airbus A321 neo and Boeing B787-9 aircraft serving international destinations including New York, London, Paris and Singapore.

The in-flight Wi-Fi connections depend on factors like satellite connectivity, bandwidth usage, routes and government restrictions.

ICC rankings: Bumrah eclipses Ashwin's rating-point record

India's pace spearhead Jasprit Bumrah on Wednesday bettered spin stalwart Ravichandran Ashwin's all-time rating-point record by an Indian in the latest ICC rankings when he touched the 907-point mark. Ashwin's highest rating was 904, achieved in December 2016. The 907 ranking points also placed Bumrah as joint-17th in the all-time list with Derek Underwood of England.

Bumrah overload biggest concern

India's strategy to have more all-rounders in the playing XI for batting depth seems to have increased workload of frontline pacers

SYDNEY

SHOW WITH BALL SO FAR

Bowler	Overs	Wickets
Bumrah	141.2	30
Cummins	136.4	20
Starc	131.2	15
Siraj	129.1	16
Lyon	116.4	8
Boland	64.5	11
Jadeja	60	4
Rana	45	4
Washington	36	3
Reddy	35	3
Marsh	33	3

DAS AB... nahi lag raha zor (Enough now, don't have the energy)." That was Jasprit Bumrah on stump mic when asked if he could bowl one more on day four of the Boxing Day Test between India and Australia. Skipper Rohit Sharma had asked Bumrah if he had it in him for another over, he had already bowled 23 of the 72 overs till then, taking 4/42.

That, in essence, has been the summary of India's tour so far. In a series that from the outside looks very competitive with the scoreline reading 2-1 going into the fifth and final Test in the hot Sydney weekend, Bumrah has made a world of difference. Take him and the 30 wickets he took in 141.2 overs across eight innings out of the equation, the scoreline might read very differently.

So much so that Sharma, and India, have turned to Bumrah at every possible turn. Because he was bloody good, and the others weren't as much. Mohammed Siraj has bowled almost (129.1) as Mitchell Starc (131.2) but he went for 3.89 runs per overs. It pales in comparison with Scott Boland (64.5 overs in two games and 11 wickets with an economy of 3.1) and Josh Hazlewood (40 overs in three innings and six wickets with an economy of 1.97).

Harshit Rana looked brilliant in Perth and erratic in Adelaide. Then there is Akash Deep, who has run in and beaten the outside edge time and again with little success. Which meant more often than not the bowling strategy seemed like bring Bumrah, rotate others till Bumrah is ready to bowl again. Sharma admitted how hard it is to not keep going to Bumrah time and again. "To be honest, he has bowled a lot of overs," said Sharma. "There is no doubt about it. But again, every Test match we play, we keep that in mind. You know, the workloads of all the bowlers in fact. But again, if somebody is in such great form, you want to try and maximise that form how much ever you can. And that is what we've been trying to do with Bumrah."

"But there comes a time where you need to step back a little bit and give him that little bit of extra breather as well. So, we've been very careful. I've been very careful. I talk to him about how he feels and stuff like that. So, yeah. Those things should be managed carefully. And I'm trying to do that on the field," he added.

As much as he has tried to do that to the best of his abilities, what hasn't helped is the lack of contribution from others, especially the all-rounders. While Sharma said they went ahead with Washington Sundar and Nitish K Reddy to ensure they had the batting depth while retaining the ability to take 20 wickets, the numbers tell a different story. Reddy, who has played all four games, has bowled just 35 overs while Washington has bowled only 36 in two games — one which he played as a lone spinner. Ravindra Jadeja, playing in Brisbane and Melbourne, bowled 60 overs while R Ashwin sent down 18 in the pink ball Test.

It makes one wonder how prominent was Washington or Reddy's role with the bat, especially with the top-order failing, in them having their place than their bowling or ability to take wickets consistently. Their limited usage with the ball essentially meant Bumrah, and of course, Siraj and Akash Deep bowled more often with the vice-captain doing the heavy lifting. It is the difference between playing four/five frontline bowlers and going for 20 wickets and playing three premium pacers and three all-rounders who might not necessarily reduce the workload of the former. That Pat Cummins and Bumrah have similar kind of workload, and so do Siraj and Starc, despite India having two extra bowling options tells the effectiveness of the combination and the workload it has imposed on Bumrah.

Speaking at a media interaction about McGrath Foundation expanding their support to not just breast cancer patients but also everyone who is affected by cancer, former Australia pacer Glenn McGrath said the series would have been more one-sided without Bumrah. "I guess they're managing him. His stats are unbelievable. I'm a massive fan of Jasprit. I met him when he was younger. What he's grown into is unbelievable. He's been a massive part of the Indian team and of the summer. Without him, this series might be a little bit more one-sided," McGrath said standing at the Sydney Cricket Ground.

As India take the field on Friday attempting to level the series, Sharma and head coach Gautam Gambhir will have to sit down and figure out whether having six bowlers, three of them all-rounders, is the solution for their batting issues. For there is no one like Bumrah and the last thing India would want to do is to bowl him into the ground with not much to show for in terms of results.

Can India bounce back?

WITH A CHANCE TO LEVEL THE SERIES IN SYDNEY, THE VISITING TEAM WILL BE LOOKING TO GO ALL OUT ON FRIDAY. A LOOK...

PRESSURE ON CAPTAIN, COACH

Since taking over, head coach Gautam Gambhir has had a disappointing ride. And Rohit Sharma, both as Test captain and a batter, is under the scanner too. Both will be hoping to bring their A-game and inspire the team in Sydney.

POSSIBLE CHANGE IN XI

While Sydney has historically proven to be favourable for spinners, expect Australia to retain their XI if there isn't any last-minute injury. India, meanwhile, might bring back Shubman Gill and play just Ravindra Jadeja. Nitish Reddy is expected to retain his place in the team.

WTC FINAL AT STAKE

Just as South Africa became the first to book a seat at the World Test Championship Final, a lot will ride on who wins in Sydney to have a chance of joining them. While Australia need to win one of their next three, India need a win in Sydney to have a better chance.

New Year celebrations in Sydney surreal experience

GOMESH S @Sydney

"NEW years are overrated... Fireworks are such a cliche." But not here.

Sydney Opera House and Harbour are fabled land on festivity days. On December 31 it turns into a dreamland. The sky turns crimson, blue and green... the colour of all kinds of fireworks that booms and thuds while ushering in the New Year.

As this diarist walked towards the Summer Hill station at about 9 PM on December 31, it already seemed late for the party. The Sydney Opera House and Harbour Bridge were already packed so were the roads towards the most-sought after place on the planet on New Years eve. The station PA system confirmed this and asked those walking towards these points to celebrate locally.

This, however, did not stop a few young people from venturing out in search of a vantage point to watch the spectacle. Another half-an-hour train ride another station later, people were on the road, so was the diarist.

The roads were packed with thousands trying to find a few vacant spots.

The Rocks seemed to be one of the few public places near the area with a good viewing point. It was almost 11pm, and most gates to viewing points were closed. There was one still open, was what a friend informed. The famous George Street was already packed. That's the best and there was no going back.

As the clock ticks closer to 12, more and more people more people enter the spot. With most people holding on to their friends, partners, kids, families, the countdown begins.

At midnight, fireworks go off first from the bridge, and then from the Opera House and the high-rise hotels around. For the next ten minutes, nothing mattered. The enormity of the occasion slowly sank in. A bucketlist of many has turned into a reality. All you could hear around are phrases like 'Happy New Year ' and 'I love you' with selfies and pictures being taken.

It's almost 12.25 AM on January 1, 2025. One realises that it is not the fireworks or the spectacle or the passing moment of clocking that makes this annual event in Sydney special. It is but the people. They come from different parts of the world and speak different languages. Punjabi, Tamil, Telugu, Hindi, Marathi, Malayalam, Bengali you name it. And it was not just the Indian diaspora. From Spanish to Korean to Chinese to Japanese to African-American, it seemed like the world had come together to witness something extraordinary. And that is what makes the New Year fireworks in Sydney — despite the restrictions, the chaos of handling more than a million people with extra trains and public order, and the questionable pollution levels — makes it surreal.

Rupinder Pal Singh (31' and 48') scored from a penalty corner and a penalty stroke while Manpreet Singh scored Team Gonasika's solitary goal. In Rupinder Pal Singh and Jugraj Singh, the Shrachi Rarh Bengal Tigers have two lethal drag flickers and the pair were called into action inside the opening three minutes as Sukhjeet Singh won a penalty corner. Jugraj's drag flick was saved comfortably by Oliver Payne.

Olmo's Barca future in air over registration race

BARCELONA: Dani Olmo's future at Barcelona was plunged into uncertainty as La Liga poured cold water on the financially troubled Catalan giants' frantic attempts to register the Spain star. Erigaisi 4th, Gukesh 5th in latest chess rankings

NEW DELHI: Indian Grandmasters Arjun Erigiasi (2801) and World Champion D Gukesh (2783) retained their fourth and fifth spot respectively in the chess rankings released on Wednesday. Magnus Carlsen continued to be at the top spot with 2831 ratings, followed by the American duo of Fabiano Caruana (2803) and Hikaru Nakamura (2802).

Vaishali clinches bronze in World Blitz

AGENCIES @ New York

INDIA'S R Vaishali clinched a bronze in the women's section of the World Blitz Championship, capping another strong performance by the country's chess players after stalwart Koneru Humpy's title-winning show in the rapid event here. Vaishali defeated China's Zhu Jiner 2.5-1.5 in the quarterfinals before losing to another Chinese opponent Ju Wenjun 0.5-2.5 in the semifinal.In an event dominated by the Chinese players, Ju Wenjun went on to snare the world title, defeating compatriot Lei Tingjie 3.5-2.5.

Carlsen, Ian share title

In the 'Open' section, World No 1 Magnus Carlsen and Russia's Ian Nepomniachtchi shared the blitz title after three sudden-death games failed to produce a winner. This was the first time that the title was awarded to two players. This sparked another controversy in the tournament (see box). "We were both tired, some will like it some will not," Carlsen said. "We reached a point where it had been a long day. We played many games, we had three draws and I felt that I could keep playing."

What they say on controversy

GM SRINATH NARAYANAN

Criticism of the regulations and using it as an excuse is nonsense here. The Wimbledon 2019 final lasted 4 hours and 57 minutes. Novak Djokovic won the 5th set 13-12 and won Wimbledon 2019. They didn't make a pact to share the trophy or 'keep losing one point each until they give up'.

US GM HANS NIEMANN

The chess world is officially a joke. THIS HAS NEVER BEEN DONE IN HISTORY. I can't believe that the official body of chess is being controlled by a singular player FOR THE 2ND TIME THIS WEEK. THERE CAN ONLY BE ONE WORLD CHAMPION! This is cause for an investigation by the FIDE Ethics committee. I can't believe that 2 players who maliciously accused me and tried to ruin my career are openly breaking the rules. The irony simply can't get any worse.

FORMER WORLD CHAMP VLADIMIR KRAMNIK

Of course, some might wonder if FIDE should have thought a bit making the regulations concerning final WC match situation like that, but understandable, a lot of time and energy was spent on the jeans clause, the person writing the regulations was already tired by then.

Indian boxing in the shadows, former pros seek system overhaul for revival

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

STARTING Point 2025

NO sport had seen such a slump like boxing last year. The sport that is among the well-funded and supported by the sports ministry and Sports Authority of India through various schemes had the worst possible 2024 that culminated in zero medal at the Paris Olympics. In fact, such was the situation that until about the last qualification tournament, no male boxer had qualified for the Olympics.

For a better future, former boxers and experts feel it's time Boxing Federation of India (BFI) usher in fundamental changes to their strategy to rebuild boxing and its legacy. The sport has seen maximum funding in the last Olympic cycle. According to a SAI document Pathway to Paris, ₹60.93 crore was spent for 17 national camps and 23 foreign exposure trips abroad. The team went and spent almost a month in Saarbrucken to acclimatise before leaving for Paris. There were about eight sparring partners for five boxers and 16 coaches and support staff including a chef. The preparation looked great but results did not.

Former Commonwealth Games gold medallist and Olympic quarter-finalist in 2008, Akhil Kumar, felt there should be accountability. If there is no result, somebody must take the responsibility. Things have changed since their time. There is no dearth of funding and there are more support staff than what it used to be 10 years ago. It is time the BFI introspect its failure to find a tangible solution.

Akhil felt it is time to usher in changes because the system is not working. "It is not an individual game because after a point of time, it becomes a team game when one has to consider the involvement of coaches and support staff," he said. "There will be a head coach, a physiotherapist, a psychologist and even a video analyst. There is a whole team. Not just the boxers and the support staff, even the officials who are sitting in the federation and making plans for the boxers. So it's a collective failure. One must also understand that though it is a team that is working, it is an individual's (boxer) need one has to cater to."

Akhil felt that the coaches, especially foreign, should understand the mentality of the players. "One has to understand the mentality of Indian athletes. This means uska dil bhi aagaya, uska will bhi aagaya (both mind and will will be there). Until and unless we don't understand how they will perform and would want to train or play, we will not be able to improve. That is, of course, my understanding. Making slides and PPTs will not produce medals. One has to understand the sport and the player and his or her specific needs."

Beijing Games bronze medallist, Vijender Singh, echoed the same. "The coach has to know what the boxer wants and who he wants to train with," he told this daily. "For example, when I was in the national camp before the Olympics, I had about three-four different sparring partners with me. This helps because you are not alone all the time in the camp. And also, this helps you in training."

Nikhat Zareen was a medal prospect in Paris but was unable to deliver

Vijender said that no one from BFI approaches him for any help or suggestion but would love to share what he has learnt about boxing over the years. He is even willing to join the BFI if need be.

Akhil, in fact, felt that players like Vijender and MC Mary Kom should be part of BFI and its think-tank. "They have all the top medals in the world and what better way than to share their experience," he said. "They should be part of BFI."

He also felt that Indian coaches should be encouraged more. "There are about 100 coaches who qualify every year through different courses, why not try them? I am saying this because the current system is not giving results," he said.

Manisha Malhotra, sports excellence and scouting JSW Sports, has seen the sport from close quarters. She has been working closely with boxers even before the Beijing Olympics, when she was part of Mittal Champions Trust. She also said that BFI needs a complete overhaul in the system. Lack of national competitions is one of the major drawbacks. "One boxer from each state is allowed to participate and there is only one senior nationals to select a boxer; the national camp restricts choices," she said. "We need to come up with a ranking system and be a feeder so that the best boxers are in the nationals." Manisha said that the idea is to have many national camps so that BFI has more experienced boxers. She said, as of now, the experienced pugilists are those who go to tournaments on their own through JSW or OGQ.

Akhil felt that coaching staff should also be held accountable. He said that CA Kutappa, who had been part of Vijender's coaching team during Beijing Olympics, is good because he produced results. "But something would have gone wrong here," he said. "Even DP Yadav is a very good boxer. They should be asked as to what went wrong. They are all experienced enough to know and report." "Our batch — Vijender, Dinesh (Kumar), Jai Bhagwan, Jitender (Kumar), Suranjoy (Singh), Suresh (Singh), Ali Qamar (Mohammed), Manpreet (Singh), there were very good boxers," said Akhil. "And their outcome/performance was dependent on individual training.

There is one schedule for everyone. But individual training used to support our individual style. Some had closed guards, some like me preferred open guard, so we used to have extra training on our favoured style or technique. The coaches used to support us and give us more inputs to fine-tune our strength. There used to be changes but the basics remained the same. We understood what a boxer needed and how his or her recovery would be. We had BI Fernandes from Cuba as foreign coach who even coached senior players like Dingko Singh. He understood us and knew what we required. He was not like a foreign coach, he was like an Indian coach. But now the foreign coaches are different," Akhil said.

2024 had been a forgettable year for boxing. Hopefully, 2025 will see changes in the sport that would take it back to its glory days.

DETOUR TOURISM

While traditional hotspots still hold allure, many travellers are now choosing detours over main attractions. Dubbed 'detour tourism,' this trend celebrates the path less travelled.This could mean exploring the peaceful backwaters of Ashtamudi in Kollam instead of the more crowded Alleppey or venturing into the charming, lesser-known Shekhawati region in Rajasthan with its frescoed havelis. Nature lovers are heading to pristine hamlets in Meghalaya, like Mawlynnong or remote valleys like Spiti in Himachal Pradesh ditching Shimla and Manali. These destinations offer an unfiltered glimpse into local culture and traditions, making the journey just as fulfilling as the destination itself.

2025 THE YEAR AHEAD IN TRAVEL!

New Year brings new beginnings and new trends to hop on, especially for those already waiting with their bags packed. For all the eager jet setters, here are the top five travel trends forecasts for a fun year ahead...

SRUSHTI KULKARNI

THE world of travel is evolving and 2025 promises to be a year of unprecedented exploration. Gone are the days of predictable itineraries; today's traveller seeks getaways that inspire, surprise and connect them to the essence of a place. Laid-back leisure days are no longer enough to make up for relaxing vacations, but the overall experience brings a holiday together. While spiritual-tourism, trains and river cruises held the top positions in 2024, the New Year forecasts fresh trends and here are the top five.

LAYOVER TOURISM

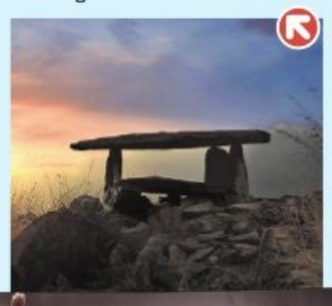
Why wait for your connecting flight when you can turn a layover into a mini holiday? Layover tourism is gaining momentum as airlines and airports offer curated experiences to make stopovers unforgettable. Iconic destinations like Abu Dhabi, Dubai and Singapore are leading the game with airline programmes and airport initiatives that transform layovers into memorable excursions. Travellers can explore the futuristic skyline of Singapore with Singapore Airlines' stopover packages, marvel at the Louvre Abu Dhabi with Etihad Airways, or enjoy desert safaris with Gulf Air Holidays' Bahrain Stopover and shopping in Dubai with Emirates' layover deals. Doha and Istanbul are also offering city tours and cultural experiences for transit passengers.

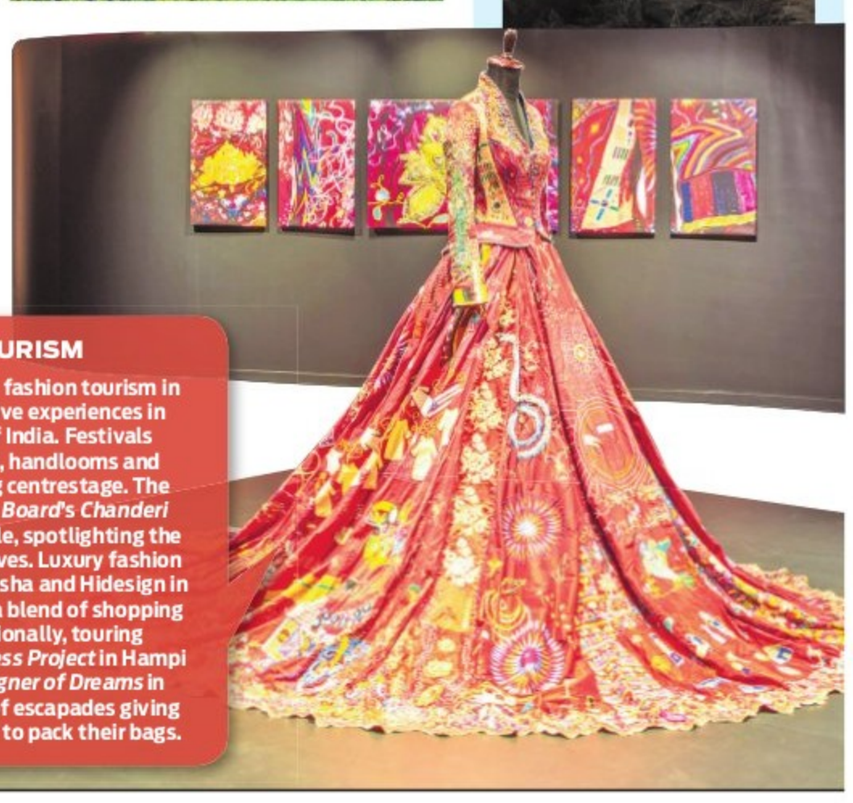
SPORTS TOURISM

2025 is shaping up to be the year sports enthusiasts turn their travel dreams into reality. In India, sports tourism is seeing a surge with the rise of luxury golf resorts and the introduction of winter games at snowy peaks like Gulmarg and Leh. The return of motorsport car races to cities such as Srinagar, Hyderabad and Chennai is also drawing global attention. Internationally, Saudi Arabia is gearing up for FIFA 2034 with state-of-the-art infrastructure, while the Maldives is adding a twist to its tropical allure with the launch of go-karting tracks. As destinations build these unique experiences, the line between spectator and participant continues to blur,

TOWNSIZING

As urban sprawl grows, travellers are downsizing their destinations. Townsizing — exploring small towns and rural gems — is an emerging antidote to the chaos of city life. Quaint markets, slow-living experiences and local crafts await in destinations like the Cotswolds in England or Chefchaouen in Morocco. In India, towns like Masagali in Chikmagalur, Karnataka, with its serene coffee estates, Maryoor in Kerala or Mandawa in Rajasthan, known for its heritage charm, are becoming favourites for travellers seeking tranquillity. With sustainability in mind, townsizing invites travellers to connect deeply with communities, rediscover the charm of simplicity and contribute to local economies and grassroots communities.





FASHION TOURISM

Move over Milan and Paris; fashion tourism in 2025 is all about immersive experiences in ancient fashion gems of India. Festivals celebrating local textiles, handlooms and artisanal crafts are taking centrestage. The Madhya Pradesh Tourism Board's Chanderi Festival is one such example, spotlighting the rich heritage of Indian weaves. Luxury fashion brand trails like Boito in Odisha and Hidesign in Pondicherry offer tourists a blend of shopping and storytelling. Additionally, touring exhibitions like The Red Dress Project in Hampi and Christian Dior's Designer of Dreams in Saudi Arabia are the kind of escapades giving globetrotters a chic reason to pack their bags.

MORE THAN A MIDNIGHT SNACK

Ever woken up at midnight craving a bowl of warm, hearty ramen, only to discover that your pantry is empty and nobody delivers at midnight? Neon Market, Indiranagar recently launched a midnight ramen dining experience that promises to hit the spot. Sharing the mouth-watering bowls on offer, Aly Payne, an American expat who co-founded the establishment with husband Srijit Panicker, says, "We have a spicy pork tonkatsu with a broth that's made over 20 hours to boil down the collagen in the fat from the pork bones, and its very creamy. It's popular because it's got a special hot Tari – a mix of imported and local chilies."

A FEAST FOR YOUR IMAGINATION!

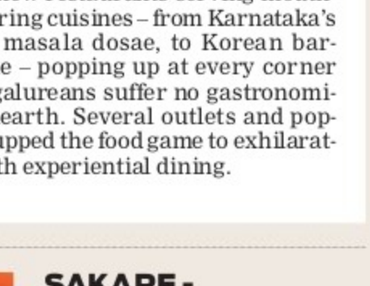
From food theatre and midnight dining, to ambient art installations and community dining – these new outlets in the city go beyond great food to give you immersive experiences to remember this New Year

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

WITH new restaurants serving mouth-watering cuisines – from Karnataka's own masala dosae, to Korean barbeque – popping up at every corner Bengalureans suffer no gastronomical dearth. Several outlets and pop-ups have now upped the food game to exhilarating heights with experiential dining.

SAKARE - SUCRE - SUGAR

Subtler than other experiences in this list but just as unique is Sakare by Chef M Jenny Clinta and her sister, M Steffi Clinta. Operating out of Jenny's apartment, this eight-seater space has become a place for dessert lovers to partake in a delicious five-course dessert meals. "Sakare, or sugar, became sucre in French, and later sugar in English – that's what we're trying to showcase – how a simple ingredient connects us globally," explains Jenny, who creates new desserts every month combining her Tamil-Andamanese heritage with her French culinary training.



STEP INTO SURREALISM

The story of Surrealist painter Salvador Dali and his wife Gala was rife with infidelities and drama, but full of character; this relationship between muse and artist has inspired a unique experiential bar on Museum Road: Dali and Gala. Featuring original art by one of the founders Siddharth Kerkar, stepping into the bar is like entering a Surrealist painting. "We have six different rooms with different ideas – we have a mirror room with a giant mirror and eyes all around which move every 10 minutes; an ant and rooster room because Dali was obsessed with ants; we have a rose room, where the wall is covered in roses and moving butterflies; even six heads that keep blowing bubbles," explains one of the founders, Vipin Raman.

THEATRICAL TIME TRAVEL

Step into this 100-year-old mansion in Cubbonpete and be transported to a charming lodge in newly independent India, featuring eccentric characters from around the country of the time. "The idea is that you walk into a story and walk out having had a five-course meal. We see people being immersed in this story because it's happening around them – the actors are sitting amongst you, they're asking you questions – it's really sensorially (sic) immersive," says Divya Rani KV, co-founder of PaChaak!, the curators of this experience. Each character introduces a dish special to them and connected to the place they are from. "These dishes aren't something that you might make at home. The ingredients are slightly different, and there is a story to why certain ingredients are used," explains co-founder Deepa Rani KV. In the city for the first time, the experience will be available till Jan 26.

Moving Tales

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

WE all know one person in our lives who is a great storyteller – a grandparent, a friend, or the neighbourhood gossip – someone who can weave fact and fiction together to tell tales so riveting that you forget to care about the difference. This is the kind of man PNK Panicker, filmmaker Suresh Eriyat's father, is in the national award-winning animated short film Kandittund! (Seen It!). Expertly weaving together folklore, hearsay and his own imagination, Panicker's charming ghost stories have captured the hearts of young and old alike, garnering over two million views on YouTube and nearly as much on Instagram since its release three years ago. "The response that we received for Kandittund! is overwhelming because we didn't expect young people and teenagers to enjoy it so much. They probably have very distant memories of their grandparents who narrated such stories. Their ways of storytelling are pretty reminiscent of the times when everybody used to stay together, and there was a very cosy, comfortable bonding that used to exist," says Suresh.

A graphic novel titled PNK Panicker's Ghost Stories (₹545; Tulika Books), based on the film, was recently launched at Founder Suresh Eriyat and Executive Producer Nilima Eriyat's Studio Eeksaurus' retrospective exhibition held in Bengaluru recently. The retrospective, first-ever in the country, featuring 15 years of the studio's work, screenings of its short films and interactive exhibits, aimed to give an inside look into the world of animation. Nilima says, "It was just amazing to see how local crowds came in thinking that it's an exhibition on animation, at best, cartoons. But then they realised that there was so much more to making an animated film – the time, effort, money, patience, perseverance, and, of course, the understanding of making a film that any live-action film requires – the story, lensing, sound, music that is no different and perhaps even more difficult than creating live-action films."

Studio Eeksaurus, known for their National Award-winning animated shorts hosted its first-ever retrospective
Nilima and Suresh Eriyat

According to Nilima, despite the popularity of Ghibli films and anime among kids and young adults, mainstream audiences are still reluctant to engage with animation. "If you still ask the masses, an animation film is first a cartoon. They will think about it five times before buying a ticket and going to watch it in the theatre or even on OTT. They would probably watch it if recommended, but as a natural choice, it would still be the second choice. So I think the attempt here, with studios like us, filmmakers like Suresh, and young directors who work in with us, is to popularise animation."

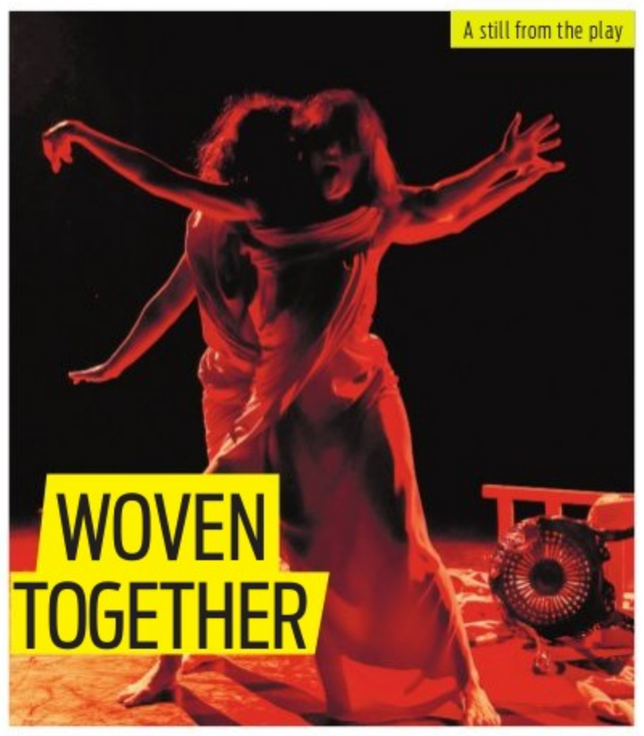
Making a foray into mainstream cinema, Studio Eeksaurus has also animated a sequence for the film Kalki 2898 AD, a moving depiction of inhuman events that have plagued the earth throughout history. "Our ambition is to create feature films in animation. It's time that we took this medium to a larger platform where people see local Indian stories unfold in the medium of animation on the big screen, that will really make a difference for Indian animation," says Suresh. Nilima further adds, "The bigger intent is to change the perception that India is great for outsourcing work but can't pull off entertaining, well-made animated films that can be a Box Office hit. We have the potential, the intelligence, and the know-how, of telling animated stories effectively."

POOJA DAS

THREADS have long held a sense of mystique, whether in the form of the East Asian myth of the Red Thread of Fate, which binds destined individuals together, or in Greek mythology, where three sisters spin the golden thread of life. Another unique story woven within this mystical power of threads premiered in the city recently with Unsewn, a powerful play co-created by Federica Ruggieri from Italy and Barkha Bahar from Guwahati. The theatrical production tells the stories of Durga, a garment factory worker in the East, and Eva, a domestic abuse survivor in the West. Despite being worlds apart, the two women are connected by a shared struggle against patriarchy, symbolised by magical dresses crafted from the same fabric. "The concept of two dresses or a long piece of fabric connecting their worlds came to us early in the process," says Bahar. "They meet in a limbo, a creation of Goddess Kali, where they find solidarity despite their different backgrounds."

The collaboration between Ruggieri and Bahar began during their time at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) in London. "I was keen to explore themes of female rage and Indian mythology. Together, we imagined a story of women from different worlds connecting through mystical powers," adds Bahar.

At the heart of Unsewn are the dresses, which symbolise both oppression and solidarity. Durga works under exploitative conditions in a garment factory, creating dresses like the one gifted to Eva by her abusive partner as a token of apology. "These dresses symbolise both solidarity and oppression – while produced under exploitative conditions, they create a liminal space where the women meet and support each other," says Bahar.



The symbol of Goddess Kali is crucial. "Kali is often misunderstood as a goddess of destruction, but her rage is directed at injustice," says Bahar. "All women carry that Kali within us – the anger suppressed by societal expectations." Ruggieri further elaborates, "Kali destroys the demon Raktabija, whose blood gives rise to more demons by drinking the blood and going straight to the source. This reminded us of patriarchy, which persists in new forms despite efforts to fight it. Kali going straight to the source of the problem is a metaphor for dismantling systemic oppression."

> This play is an exploration of oppression, resilience, and the transformative power of solidarity

The play also attempted to challenge stereotypes, particularly the notion that Western societies are inherently more progressive. "Eva's story highlights that oppression exists everywhere," says Bahar. "She is a career-driven woman but trapped in a domestic violence situation, compounded by her vulnerability as an immigrant in the UK."

How can I track progress effectively without obsessing over the scale?

Weighing scale obsession is something that I see often among exercisers.

- Instead of focusing on the weighing scale results, focus on non-scale measurements like body measurements, progress photos, and clothing fit.
- When you start strength training, you gain lean muscle mass and bone density. This is a positive weight gain with an inch loss. Measure yourself with an inch of tape rather than a weighing scale. Track changes using tape at your waist, hip, and chest.

ASK AN XPERT

- Other ways to track your performance include tracking the weight lifted, reps completed, or time taken. Endurance tests include your performance in activities like walking, swimming, cycling or lifting.
- Monitor changes in your blood lipid profiles, blood sugar, blood pressure, sleep quality, duration, or consistency. Wear fitness trackers or smart watches to monitor your activity levels, sleep, and other health metrics.

FITBIT

WALL UPAVISTHA KONASANA
(WALL STRADDLE POSE)

This is considered as a restorative yoga pose. It is a great way to improve the flexibility of the leg muscles and the hips using the wall which otherwise might be difficult with the practice of Seated Straddle Pose. This is a wide stretched leg pose on the wall, forming a V shape that helps to activate the hips and the hamstrings in an efficient way. It helps boost energy in the body and therefore it can be included in flow yoga sequences. This uses props to make the pose accessible and easier for students who may not have the needed strength, flexibility or balance to do the same pose without props.

STEPS

- Place your yoga mat close to the wall. Begin by sitting straight, facing the wall, with your buttocks close to it. Inhale, use your hands, and lie down on your back. Simultaneously, sweep or extend your legs up the wall in Viparita Karani (Legs Up The Wall). Slide back if you move away from the wall.
- Exhale completely, spread your palms on the floor near the hips. Maintain straight legs together on the wall, continue to breathe. Take a deep breath in, exhale, and allow your feet to fall to the sides, opening your legs into a wide V-shape on the wall, as in Upavistha Konasana.
- Use your hands to pull the legs down for a good stretch, without overstraining. Rest your arms on the floor, fingers together, palms facing down. Stay here for about six breaths or longer, but not more than three minutes. Feel the inner thigh stretch and the lower back firm against the mat. Keep the legs active with flexed feet.
- Keep your lower belly slightly engaged. Relax the neck, shoulders, and chest, allowing gravity to help deepen the stretch. Inhale to bring the legs together in Viparita Karani. Exhale, move your hips back, release the legs, place your feet on the floor near the wall, and relax.
- Finish in Constructive Rest Pose as a counterpose.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and strengthens the leg muscles and improves blood circulation in the pelvic area.
- Promotes fresh blood supply to muscles supporting reproductive organs.
- Reduces menstrual cramps and alleviates symptoms related to menopause.
- Improves flexibility of the hip adductors.
- Provides immediate relaxation to the hip and psoas muscles and calms the body and mind.
- Energises and strengthens the back.
- Relieves lower back pain by relaxing associated muscles.
- Stretches the inner thigh and groin muscles.
- Strengthens the core, quadriceps, hips, and knees.
- Opens the pelvic joints and lengthens the spine.
- Activates the spine, chest, and abdomen, enhancing energy flow (prana).
- Stimulates the digestive and reproductive systems.
- Helps treat sexual impotency, lack of sexual arousal, and infertility.
- Regulates menstrual flow and eases menstrual cycles.
- Aids in managing Polycystic Ovary Syndrome (PCOS).
- Promotes confidence by balancing hormones.
- Pregnant women can use this pose to open the hips in the third trimester, facilitating easier delivery.

LIMITATIONS

- Avoid this pose if you have ankle, shoulder, hip, rib cage, pelvic, lower back, or knee injuries, or if you've had recent surgeries involving the hips, spine, or knees.
- Move slowly and control the legs as you place them on the wall.
- Pregnant women should elevate the lower back and hips using blankets or cushions.
- Practise under the guidance of a qualified yoga teacher.

With the New Year here, CE delves deep into the rising trend of meditation and mindfulness, as the UN celebrated the maiden World Meditation Day recently

- Reduces anxiety, stress, body temperature, respiratory rate, lifestyle disorders, improves memory, general intelligence
- Enhances the functioning of the prefrontal cortex
- Reduces jerky reactions and instils calmness
- Improves awareness, reduces impact of past trauma and future concerns

APARNA NAIR

FORMER UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was working late at night, when he felt something amiss. There was a stillness lurking, yet there was none in him and around him. The thought hit him hard, prompting him to rush to the quiet room in the UN, a space dedicated to solitude and contemplation. Inside the room, Dag felt the space not reflecting the silence that is absent on the streets and thirsting to come out and fill the room. He wanted to create an ambience, a bridge between the vastness of the space above and the limitations of the world below – a reminder of the idea of a supreme power worshipped by many in whatever form and whatever way. That was in 1957.

Now, 67 years later, the UN has gone a step ahead and taken this quietude beyond the spiritual to one of wellness and wellbeing. Akin to the Yoga Day it instituted on June 21, the UN has now set aside a day for what the quiet room stood for, time within one's own self, and celebrated the maiden edition of World Meditation Day recently. With a new year here, CE aims to motivate its readers to take on this practice, and talks to practitioners who share how meditation has helped them.

Yoga trainer Aleena Saju took up meditation, when she was going through a low phase during her college days in Mangaluru. "I had a friend who had taken up yoga modules which gave importance to meditation. I too took up the same and life has transformed for me," she says. Ashvin K, a Chennai resident says, "I began meditating during my temple visits, spending 20-25 minutes focusing on the area between my eyebrows. It gave me a profound sense of calm. I've continued this practice for two years now, and it has been instrumental in relieving my daily stress."

Meanwhile, Simple Jain, a fashion designer and meditation practitioner, had an almost identical experience to Dag's. She, too, felt a lack in her life and surroundings. And like Ashvin, she too visited temples, offered prayers and silently sat in open spaces to find answers, but in vain. In 2015, one of her clients took her to a meditation retreat – Pyramid Spiritual Societies Movement (PSSM). "I had attended a few meditation and yoga camps earlier, but this one was different. I sat there for 45 minutes and all my suppressed emotions came out. I started crying and my body shivered. That is when I understood the power of meditation," she says.

Dr A Chandan, a dermatologist, says, "I've been meditating for years, but I started practising Sushumna Kriya Yoga for the past month, dedicating 7, 14, 21, or even 49 minutes at a time. This method has been more effective than others I've tried. The process involves closing the eyes, chanting 'Om' 21 times, breathing deeply 14 times, and then focusing on the spot between your eyebrows. It leaves me feeling relaxed and energised in the morning. My concentration has improved, and my brain fog has reduced."

There is a steady increase in those opting for meditation and yoga. While there are offline facilities offering such sessions, meditation has made a huge mark on social media too, especially after the pandemic period, with apps being launched promising guided meditation classes and prompts for personal meditation schedules. "I had signed up for Headspace, an app for meditation. It offers guided sessions and lectures. I am now looking for such an app in Malayalam for my mother. Instagram and Facebook are also flooded with reels about meditation and its positives. Probably why my mother is interested," says Prakriti C Chandran, a techie.

However, according to Natarajan, a yoga guru, it is not a quick fix for everything. "Meditation is different for different people and is a journey of the self towards its own self. Hence, it takes time. Many do not spare time to sit in meditation; they want to experience it on a seven-day camp. It doesn't work that way. Nowadays, not many can sit quietly for 10 minutes. So, more people taking it up does not mean they are into meditation," he says.

Many often don't choose meditation, despite interest, due to lack of time, says Dr Smitha Pillai of Five Points Yoga Studio in Kochi. Instead, she adds, people go for other activities for immediate results due to lack of time, but they do not have long-term benefits.

"We can make them aware how meditation helps with understanding themselves. We encourage those seeking our counsel to start with 10 minutes. Once this progress is settled, they will dive into it more. The idea is to introduce the concept slowly," Jain explains.

Sharing her experience, Jain says, physically meditation improves sleep with a better pattern, reduces stress and tension, and enhances concentration boosting performance. Mentally, it gives a sense of inner calm and awareness. Emotionally, it helps us understand the source of our emotions and manage them. Financially, there is clarity in making sound decisions. "After practising meditation every day, I was up and about. I started my small business and made better decisions," she notes.

According to Saju, mindfulness and meditation are more about an attitude that brings a total transformation. "It may appear tough but once into it, the taste of it will never let us leave it. It happened to me," she says.

Jain believes that the core of meditation is spreading oneness. "Once you get a deeper understanding of self, you want its (meditation) benefits to reach others. That is the reason for the rise in videos and guides on meditation available on the Internet," she says.

Urging the younger generation to make this practice a habit, Jain shares, "The new generation is the pillar of the world. If they inculcate this habit early in life, the fruits will be larger, wider and more beneficial. Hence, they should have two-three meditation classes as part of their course/syllabus in their institutions," she concludes.

In 2025, let's take up a new goal to sit still, and tap into our inner self for some peace and quiet.

Top priority resolution @ 2025

NUTRIWISE
Sadhvika Srinivas
@sadhvikaaa (dietitiansadhvika@gmail.com)

(The expert is the director and chief nutritionist at LivStack Health and Performance, Adyar.)

AS the calendar turns to a new year, many of us set ambitious goals to improve our health, often vowing to lose weight, get fit, or adopt a healthier lifestyle. However, these resolutions often falter due to unrealistic expectations or a lack of proper planning.

Nutrition, a cornerstone of overall health, deserves a place at the top of our resolutions, and it's easier to incorporate than one might think.

Even small, sustained dietary changes can lead to significant long-term health benefits. Starting the year with a focus on nutrition can set the stage for sustainable health improvements.

Set realistic goals

Setting realistic nutrition goals is crucial for achieving long-term success and maintaining health. Unrealistic expectations can lead to frustration, decreased motivation, and potential health risks, such as nutrient deficiencies or disordered eating. Realistic goals promote sustainable changes by allowing gradual adjustments that are easier to maintain. They build confidence through small, achievable milestones, prevent burnout, and encourage consistent progress over time.

Tailor your diet

Tailoring your diet to what is practical and feasible is key to sustainable success. Making small, incremental changes to your daily habits, such as adding nutritious ingredients and removing less healthy ones, is far more effective than overhauling your eating pattern.

This approach allows you to continue enjoying your cultural preferences, traditional dishes, and familiar home-cooked meals, rather than relying on foreign foods that may be difficult to source or require additional preparation time. Focusing on adjustments that fit seamlessly into your routine creates a more enjoyable and lasting path to better health.

Go local & seasonal

Opting for local and seasonal foods is a smart choice, as they provide fresh, nutrient-rich produce that is naturally suited to your region. These foods not only offer the most valuable nutrients for your body but are also more affordable, making them a budget-friendly option.

Embracing seasonal and native ingredients supports both your health and your wallet while ensuring you enjoy the freshest and most sustainable produce available.

Prioritise sleep

Sleep and nutrition are closely linked, and poor sleep can harm your skin, weight, and overall health. Aim for seven to nine hours of quality sleep nightly and reduce screen time, as blue light disrupts melatonin production.

Incorporate sleep-friendly foods like warm milk, walnuts, chamomile tea, and other melatonin-rich options, such as bananas and oats, to promote relaxation and better rest.

Hydration is vital

Hydration and nutrition are key to achieving and sustaining New Year's resolutions, especially those focused on health and fitness. Staying hydrated supports energy levels, digestion, and mental clarity, making it easier to stick to your goals.

Proper nutrition fuels your body with the essential nutrients needed for exercise, weight management, and overall wellbeing. Together, they enhance performance, recovery, and mood, ensuring you stay motivated and on track. Start the year strong by drinking enough water daily and choosing nutrient-dense foods that align with your resolution for a healthier lifestyle.

Achieving your New Year's nutrition goals requires a balanced approach that prioritises sustainable habits. Focus on hydration, as staying well-hydrated boosts energy, digestion, and overall health. Incorporate local, seasonal, and culturally familiar foods to ensure freshness, affordability, and enjoyment.

Set realistic, achievable goals and make small, consistent changes to your diet by adding nutrient-rich ingredients and reducing less healthy ones. Emphasise quality sleep to support recovery, metabolism, and wellbeing, complemented by sleep-promoting foods. With mindful choices, gradual improvements, and a focus on what works for you, you can build a strong foundation for long-term health and success in the year ahead.

HEAR THEM OUT

DR ROHIT UDAYA PRASAD

Hearing issues in the elderly often go unnoticed or unaddressed. Here's why families should keep an eye on it

HEARING loss in elderly is an issue which is seen in almost every household in our country which can range from mild to severe – profound levels. It's generally the elephant in the room and is least expressed by the elderly and addressed by the family. Visual impairment gets immediate attention of the person who has it but hearing loss in elderly is addressed late or never. In our society, hearing impaired elderly aren't assisted as much as you see with visually-impaired people.

Hearing loss also leads to poor socialising skills where the elderly isolate themselves from day to day conversations and prefer solitude. Many a times while have conversing with hearing impaired elderly, we notice they smile when unable to have the clarity in a conversation or would reply differently. Day-to-day activities need listening spoken language and active conversations, especially for the elderly as it's an activity which isn't physically demanding. This keeps them mentally engaged and helps to have a good memory with recent activities.

Usually the family of the hearing impaired find conversations taxing and bring them for a hearing assessment. Some might visit on their own for an assessment as they are more socially active and professionally engaged. Appropriate hearing evaluation with continuous engagement is needed to make them understand the nature of hearing loss and the possible solutions. Hearing solutions can range from as simple as a hearing aid to a cochlear implant surgery. Cochlear implants in elderly people is done in cases when they don't benefit from a hearing aid.

Dementia and depression can worsen due to hearing loss in elderly. So, intervening at the right time without worrying about hearing assistance as a taboo is much needed.

Road accident victims donate organs, save lives

Life-saving liver and kidney organ donations from two young brain-dead patients who were victims of road traffic accidents (RTA), recently saved multiple lives. 32-year-old Manjunatha E from Bengaluru and 25-year-old Ajay B from Shidlaghatta, Chikkaballapur, sustained severe injuries in accidents but despite medical intervention, succumbed to traumatic brain injuries. Following the confirmation of brain death, their families made the decision to donate their organs, which were transplanted to critically ill patients at SPARSH Hospital. SPARSH Hospital highlighted that SOTTO Karnataka's (Jeevasarthakathe) speedy coordination with the hospital played an important role.

'Collective cinema viewing is back in Brazil'

NAMRATA JOSHI

BRAZILIAN filmmaker Walter Salles, best known for the Berlinale winner Central Station and the Che Guevara film The Motorcycle Diaries, has again hit the bull's eye with I'm Still Here. Based on Marcelo Rubens Paiva's 2015 book Ainda Estou Aqui, I'm Still Here is a real-life account of the horrors faced by Marcelo's family at the hands of the Brazilian military dictatorship in the early 70s. It is centred on Marcelo's mother Eunice Paiva who finds life for herself, and her five children, turning upside down when her husband and former Brazilian Labour Party congressman Rubens Paiva (Selton Mello) goes missing. A film in which the personal becomes the political, I'm Still Here is a cautionary tale on state persecution and violence, which more often than not offers no legal recourse to the affected. It has become the biggest Brazilian hit since COVID-19, despite calls for a boycott by the country's far right.

The Brazilian entry for Best International Feature Film at the 97th Academy Awards, the film had its world premiere at Venice where it won Best Screenplay. It was recently featured in the Gala Screenings at the 21st Marrakech International Film Festival, where Salles interacted with the international press. He spoke about adapting Marcelo's book, how the film is breaking all the records at the Brazilian box office, his equation with lead actor Fernanda Torres, the return to the collective experience of watching a film and how the injustices of the military dictatorship of the 70s that the film deals with have not been addressed in the country to date.

Excerpts:

■ Why didn't anything happen for the people that were killed (by the military dictatorship) at that time?

It's because as opposed to what happened in Argentina and Chile, the crimes committed by the dictatorship in Brazil in the 70s were not punished. Nobody was imprisoned. A film that I love, Santiago Mitre's Argentina, 1985 is a story [about the trial of the members of the country's military government) that could not be told in Brazil.

■ This is what is ultimately leading so many filmmakers to look at that period again, bringing up this question that you just did—why?

It's been asked many times, because we almost drifted again to an oppressive regime. Many documentaries have surfaced about the period, and some are truly excellent.

■ You have had a close relationship with the Paiva family. Did that get you interested? Is it like a personal film?

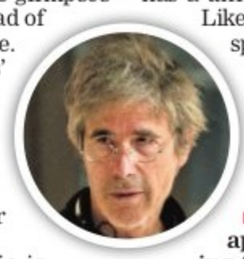
It is by far the most personal film I've developed. At the same time, it's inspired by the book. It's the blend of all the layers that Marcelo portrayed in his book and the glimpses of memory that I had of my own adolescence.

Fernanda Torres' (who plays the mother) face is where your film truly resides. The impending doom seems to lurk in her expressions…

Marcelo's book is ignited by the fact that his mother was starting to lose her memory while, in fact, all the rest of her life she had fought to establish and revive that memory (of the 70s), and not allow it to be forgotten. He wanted to somehow do justice to that. And, at the same time, he had his first child who was forming memories. As he was writing the book, he understood that she had been the silent, central figure of the family for 30-40 years. The book is written with such freedom and honesty that it led us to try and find the same qualities in the film. It's told from the microcosm of family, but through her eyes. We know as much as she knows.

■ Did you deliberately cast a real-life daughter and mother—Fernanda Torres and Fernanda Montenegro—to play the younger and older versions, respectively?

I have had the good luck of collaborating with both of them in previous works. I consider Fernanda Torres a co-author of the film in her own right. She has the craft and the emotional intelligence to portray a woman who is extremely restrained but has a unique inner strength. Like a volcano that never spills and yet there's always something brewing inside. It was about trying to say a lot with very little.



■ What was your approach to shooting the darker torture scenes?

Here you had to create the layers to understand the enormity of the violence through the mother's eyes and the perception that she has. The prison was completely nightmarish for her, and what she was hearing was probably the same forms of torture that led to her husband's death, which she is not aware of while she is there. Yet, you know. In cinema, many times what you don't see, but can sense or kind of foresee, becomes extremely powerful. It gives a kind of Kafkian reality to it.
